Johnson Opens Conference on U.S. Budget

Economy, Defense Aides Summoned To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called two Cabinet officers and his budget director to the White House today for conferences on economic and defense matters.

The sessions with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and Budget Director Kermit Gordon followed hard on the heels of a busy Sunday at the White House for the new President.

While at his desk Sunday, Johnson drafted a letter to defense contractors asking their cooperation in cutting defense costs, and the White House announced the dates when West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Italian President Antonio Segni and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will visit the President.

Johnson began his work day with a morning visit from Whitman Young, director of the National Urban League. They discussed Negro unemployment.

Young said he urged Johnson to launch an emergency public works program, and the President asked for written suggestions on the proposal.

The Urban League director said he has worked with Johnson on other civil rights projects and didn't "regard him as any Johnny-come-lately in the field of civil rights."

In late afternoon, Johnson

TV Actress Is Strangled

Hollywood Police Are Void of Clues

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — homicide officers worked in teams today to question Karyn Kucipet's host of friends, hopeful of finding some lead to the strangler of the vivacious, 22-year-old actress.

Miss Kucipet, a petite brunette who had appeared in a number of top television shows, was found Saturday night in her modest apartment near the famed Sunset Strip. The body was nude and lay face down on a couch.

The actress was the only daughter of Irv Kucipet, a Chicago newspaper columnist and television moderator.

Among those questioned was Andrew Prine, 27, a television actor identified as Miss Kucipet's steady boy friend until a recent disagreement caused them to break up.

Prine, a co-star of the "Wide Country" series told investigators he knew nothing of the slaying but had telephoned Karyn twice Wednesday evening to discuss their differences.

Investigators said he may have been the last person to hear her voice when he placed his second call about midnight. Officers believe the slaying took place in the early hours Thursday.

Detectives said the actress' body lay undiscovered — possibly for three days — until actor Mark Goddard and his wife Marcia, 25, visited the modest apartment Saturday evening. They were concerned, they said, about her failure to answer their telephone calls for two days.

She had been a dinner guest in their home on Wednesday.

The four girl quintuplets, all doing fine, in the hospital where they were born, will be sent home one at a time in coming weeks.

Public School Closure Ruled Legal in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Supreme Court said today Prince Edward County had the right to close its public schools to avoid racial integration.

In a 6-1 decision, the majority said the Virginia Constitution gives its localities the option of operating or not operating public schools.

The dissenting judge was Chief Justice John Eggleston, who held that the State Legislature was obliged to provide public education in the county which abandoned it four years ago.

The final adjudication in the long-fought school case hinged in part on the action of the Virginia high court. The case is already before the U.S. Supreme

Traffic Toll Over Holiday Sets Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record 526 deaths occurred on the nation's highways in traffic accidents during the four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Reports of fatalities during the final hours of the 102-hour period pushed the toll above the 514 of the 1962 Thanksgiving weekend which was the highest since 1958 when The Associated Press initiated tabulations for the fall holiday. The lowest was 442 in 1960.

The toll was recorded during the period from 6 p. m. Wednesday, until midnight Sunday.

The National Safety Council did not estimate a toll in advance of the holiday. Officials said Thanksgiving is a family holiday and highway travel is about the same as a non-holiday weekend at this time of year.

Ohio safety officials apparently knew what to expect during the long Thanksgiving holiday as their forecast of 22 traffic deaths proved tragically accurate.

The weekend death rate started slowly — only two traffic fatalities were reported Wednesday night following the 6 p. m. start of the Associated Press records.

Fatal Pike County Shooting Is Probed

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP) — Investigation continued today in a shooting that left one man dead and a Pike County couple in a Chillicothe hospital with bullet wounds.

James Duffield of Bainbridge received a fatal bullet wound in the back early Sunday morning.

Herman Bivens, 44, of near Bainbridge, and his 47-year-old wife Nellie, also were shot in the back. They were reported in satisfactory condition.

Authorities said the shooting apparently followed an argument over a billfold at the Bivens home in Pike County near the Ross County line.

Ruby's Lawyer Sees No Tie To Oswald

Attorney Says Government Data To Prove Point

DALLAS (AP) — A defense lawyer predicts the findings of federal investigators will bolster the case of Jack Ruby, who shot down the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

There are increasing signs, meanwhile, of probable delay in the murder trial of Ruby, tentatively set to start a week from today.

Ruby, 52, owner of a downtown strip tease joint, remained under close guard today in the county jail. He has been held without bond since the televised shooting Nov. 24 of Lee Harvey Oswald, charged with firing the shots which killed Kennedy and a Dallas policeman two days earlier.

"When the government's report of the Oswald case comes out," defense lawyer Tom Howard said Sunday night, "I believe then that public opinion in favor of Ruby will be stronger than ever because it will prove conclusively there was absolutely no connection between Ruby and Oswald."

District Atty. Henry Wade, who has said he will demand the death penalty for Ruby, declined to go into this aspect of the case.

Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, mother of the slain suspect, asserted she was sure her son did not kill President Kennedy.

In angry tones, she blamed authorities on guard and asked in a Fort Worth interview why Oswald, who sought to renounce U.S. citizenship when he went to Russia in 1959, was not under surveillance.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and city police continued to dig for evidence. Official silence cloaked any fresh discoveries. It was indicated they would need considerable time to sift reams of notes left by Oswald, an avowed Marxist.

Howard, a veteran of criminal law trials, all but said he would seek postponement of the Ruby trial on a state charge of murder, set for Dec. 9 in a Dallas U.S. District Court. Earlier the lawyer said he expected the defense to be ready by that date.

"We need considerable time to develop our case," Howard said Sunday night. "I don't see how we could be ready before February."

Every mail delivery brought more donations for the families of Dallas policeman J. D. Tippit, whom Oswald was accused of killing as the officer tried to stop him for questioning, and for Oswald's Russian-born wife and two small daughters.

The Tippit fund was estimated at $65,000 before counting was suspended for the weekend.

Howard reported receipt of about 300 letters and telegrams, including one from a Los Angeles man pledging $500 for the defense of Ruby. He said several applauded the slaying of Oswald and only four were unfavorable in tone.

4000 Hear Tributes to Rabbi Silver

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than 4,000 persons listened to eulogies and prayers Sunday at services for Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, spiritual leader of The Temple here for more than 45 years and one of the founders of the state of Israel.

Every seat in The Temple was filled and others crowded into Luntz Auditorium and the social hall, where they heard the services over loudspeakers.

Rabbi Silver died Thursday in Lakeside Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack at his home in Shaker Heights.

"His presence will be here always," said Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, in one of the eulogies at the hour long rites.

Among the distinguished persons attending the services were Anthony J. Celebrezze, U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare; Abraham Harman, Israel's ambassador to the United States; Richard Tucker, Metropolitan Opera Company tenor, and Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher.

Legislature Returns Loaded with Money

18-Year-Old Youth Fatally Injured Here

William R. Williams Is 13th Traffic Victim of 1963

William Richard Williams, 18, Route 3, died in University Hospital at 9:50 p. m. Saturday, two hours after he was injured in a one-car accident 4½ miles north of Circleville. The crash was on the Red Bridge — Ringgold Road.

Williams became the 13th person to lose his life in a traffic accident in Pickaway County in 1963.

The fatally injured man was a passenger in a car driven by David Clayton Allen, 20, Columbus. The driver was uninjured.

According to the account Allen gave to Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies, the accelerator of the car stuck.

AS HE approached a sharp curve in the road he applied the brakes, but the car did not slow down. It went out of control in the loose gravel, left the road turning over two times and came to a stop on its wheels.

A subsequent investigation by the deputies indicated the spring had come loose from the accelerator rod. George Linder and Warren Straley were investigating officers.

Williams is survived by his mother, Mrs. William Goorey Route 3; father, Jessie T. Williams, Columbus; one sister, Carolyn Byrd of Worthington; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Massie of Galloway.

Funeral services will be 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Deyo Funeral Home, Columbus.

Friends may call at the funeral home. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery.

Ex-Con Slays Wife, Cleric, Self in Church

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An ex-convict walked into an Asheville church Sunday night and killed his divorced wife, the minister and himself with blasts from a shotgun.

Police said Walter H. Bailey, 57, of Asheville entered the West Asheville Assembly of God Church just before the Rev. Lester Cobb, 44, started the sermon and demanded to see his ex-wife, Ruby Bailey, 50.

As Mrs. Bailey huddled on the floor between pews, hidden under the coats of other members, the Rev. Mr. Cobb pleaded with Bailey to leave.

But J. D. Taylor, a member of the Church Board, said Bailey warned the 50 persons in the congregation not to leave, and told the Rev. Mr. Cobb:

"You aren't going to let her (Mrs. Bailey) come out. I know she's here. I've looked everywhere for her. I'm not going to leave until I see Ruby."

Police said Bailey shot the Rev. Mr. Cobb with a sawed-off 12-gauge shotgun from a range of about five feet.

Bailey then found his former wife, shot her in the head with one blast and killed himself with another shot from the double barreled gun.

Caracas Defies Reds at Polls

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Portly, bespectacled Raul Leoni, candidate of President Romulo Betancourt's Democratic Action party, held an early lead in unofficial presidential election returns today after an overwhelming turnout of Venezuelans voted in defiance of death threats from pro-Communist terrorists.

Unofficial returns from about 5 per cent of the votes gave Leoni 44,399 votes; Arturo Usar Pietri, a wealthy independent, 36,542; Rafael Caldera, Social Christian party, 27,803; Wolfgang Larrazabal, popular Democratic party, 16,357; Raul Ramos Gimenez, dissident Democratic Action, 6,828, and German Borregales of the rightist Authentic National Movement, 442.

Counting of votes was delayed by the number of presidential and congressional candidates.

Leoni, who has compared his worker-peasant party to Britain's Labor party, looked to votes from the interior and oil-rich state, where his party is strong, to pile up his margin of victory.

Usar Pietri was running far ahead in Caracas where the Democratic Action party ran last in the 1958 election.

The pro-Castro Armed Forces for National Liberation threatened death to those who voted and kept up the bombing, sniper fire and sabotage with which it sought during the campaign to provoke a military overthrow of Betancourt.

The voters were not intimidated. Officials estimated that a record 3.4 million persons, about 96 per cent of the eligible voters, cast ballots.

During the day a police agent was killed and his wife wounded in a gun fight between a terrorist gang and police and troops in Caracas.

Five bombs exploded in Caracas, including one in an apartment building hallway that injured a child. Special patrols dismantled 30 other bombs.

Major gun battles broke out after nightfall and after the polls closed. Avenue Urdaneta in downtown Caracas was a no man's land of machine-gun and small arms fire.

During a prolonged sniper attack on a police station a volley of fire poured into the windows of the United Press International agency on the ninth floor of an office building. One bullet nicked the chest of cameraman Carl Warner of Miami, Fla., and other bullets knocked out the lights and power supply.

Another gun battle raged outside the building housing The Associated Press until national guard troops blocked the streets with barbed wire and drove the snipers from the roof tops.

The slow official vote count continued, meanwhile, without interruption in the Congress

Man Held For Threats Against LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert A. Weatherington, 40, was to be arraigned today in General Sessions Court on a charge of making an oral threat against the life of President Johnson.

Secret Service agents arrested Weatherington at his home Saturday night.

Police said Weatherington has a record of erratic behavior.

According to agents, Weatherington complained that he had been discharged by the Army Corps of Engineers because of a nervous condition. He alleged that the President and heads of three local banks were involved in a news blackout of files which would clear his record.

The agents said Weatherington told them that unless the blackout was ended by the President, Johnson would have to die.

Bond Issue To Be Divided

$250 Million Fund Allocation Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's barrel-scraping legislature returned today for a recess session loaded with money.

Approval of a $250 million capital improvements bond issue at the last election now requires action to allocate the proceeds.

Leaders contemplate an initial issue of $100 million in securities with $70 million of that amount going for state universities, community colleges and technical institutes.

The remaining $30 million would be split to provide $10 million each for distressed public schools, parks and recreation areas and for rehabilitation of mental institutions and other state facilities.

Lawmakers ended their regular work July 11 and recessed until 1:30 p. m. today for a financial session.

Leaders said they hope for final adjournment in a week or two, unless the lawmakers haggle over allocations and other matters.

The other matters include: A proposed $500 million bond issue for accelerated highway building, subject to voter approval in the May 5 primary election. Gov. James A. Rhodes said approval would mean a special session next year.

Legislation to qualify Ohio for a share of federal funds for Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADCU).

Creation of an authority to use up to $150 million in state liquor profits for new technical institutes and other operations over a period of years.

Expansion of the administration's "Golden Age Village" program to allow qualified patients discharged from state hospitals to occupy quarters in metropolitan housing projects.

Correction of errors and omissions in laws dealing with false pharmacy advertising and personal property taxes.

Senate action to confirm about 80 gubernatorial appointments. A special joint Senate-House resolution will be offered in tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Leaders said efforts to introduce other legislation would be discouraged in the hope of avoiding a lengthy session.

An estimated $50 million from liquor profits would go for new technical institutes offering two-year terminal courses for students beyond the high school under an administration proposal.

The plan also would provide $35 million for public works, $2 million for youth camps, $1 million for Highway Patrol training, $40 million for natural resources, $7 million for university branches, $5 million for the Higher Education Commission and $10 million for the Industrial Development Financing Committee.

Officials predicted that back liquor bills left over from the previous administration would be paid off next year, clearing the way to tap profits ranging from $42 to $44 million a year.

Jackie Returns To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her children, Caroline, 6, and John Jr., 3, have returned to the White House after a Thanksgiving weekend reunion with the Kennedy family at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy, dressed in black, was bareheaded. The children were dressed in blue coats. With them were Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Mrs. Lee Radziwill, and a niece, Sydney Lawford, daughter of the late President's sister, Mrs. Peter Lawford.

2 Derailed Cars Fall on Vehicle

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP) — John Seis suffered neck and head injuries about midnight Saturday when two cars of a derailed freight train left an overpass and tumbled onto Seis' vehicle.

Authorities said 15 cars of a 110-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train left the tracks over a trestle on U.S. 30N in Bucyrus. Two of the cars went over the trestle and landed on Seis' vehicle.

U. S. 30N was expected to be cleared today after being blocked all of Sunday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert A. Weatherington, 40, was to be arraigned today in General Sessions Court on a charge of making an oral threat against the life of President Johnson.

Secret Service agents arrested Weatherington at his home Saturday night.

Police said Weatherington has a record of erratic behavior.

According to agents, Weatherington complained that he had been discharged by the Army Corps of Engineers because of a nervous condition. He alleged that the President and heads of three local banks were involved in a news blackout of files which would clear his record.

The agents said Weatherington told them that unless the blackout was ended by the President, Johnson would have to die.

Bond Issue To Be Divided

$250 Million Fund Allocation Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's barrel-scraping legislature returned today for a recess session loaded with money.

Approval of a $250 million capital improvements bond issue at the last election now requires action to allocate the proceeds.

Leaders contemplate an initial issue of $100 million in securities with $70 million of that amount going for state universities, community colleges and technical institutes.

The remaining $90 million would be split to provide $10 million each for distressed public schools, parks and recreation areas and for rehabilitation of mental institutions and other state facilities.

Lawmakers ended their regular work July 11 and recessed until 1:30 p. m. today for a financial session.

Leaders said they hope for final adjournment in a week or two, unless the lawmakers haggle over allocations and other matters.

The other matters include: A proposed $500 million bond issue for accelerated highway building, subject to voter approval in the May 5 primary election. Gov. James A. Rhodes said approval would mean a special session next year.

Legislation to qualify Ohio for a share of federal funds for Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADCU).

Creation of an authority to use up to $150 million in state liquor profits for new technical institutes and other operations over a period of years.

Expansion of the administration's "Golden Age Village" program to allow qualified patients discharged from state hospitals to occupy quarters in metropolitan housing projects.

Correction of errors and omissions in laws dealing with false pharmacy advertising and personal property taxes.

Senate action to confirm about 80 gubernatorial appointments.

A special joint Senate-House resolution will be offered in tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Leaders said efforts to introduce other legislation would be discouraged in the hope of avoiding a lengthy session.

An estimated $50 million from liquor profits would go for new technical institutes offering two-year terminal courses for students beyond the high school under an administration proposal.

The plan also would provide $35 million for public works, $2 million for youth camps, $1 million for Highway Patrol training, $40 million for natural resources, $7 million for university branches, $5 million for the Higher Education Commission and $10 million for the Industrial Development Financing Committee.

Officials predicted that back liquor bills left over from the previous administration would be paid off next year, clearing the way to tap profits ranging from $42 to $44 million a year.

Now 29, Schinagle was a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University when Cynthia Pfeil, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., was slain in what came to be called "the red slippers case."

The case was so nicknamed because, when the girl's body was found, she had been beaten so severely that identification was difficult. A pair of red slippers she wore was traced to Columbus, helping establish her identity.

Medical examination determined she was pregnant.

Schinagle was to have been paroled Nov. 7, but Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the Parole Commission to temporarily suspend parole after it was reported a violation of prison regulations by Schinagle might not have come to the commission's attention.

The commission said, however, it did have all data—including Schinagle's conviction in a prison summary court of being "out of place" with a prison vehicle while a trusty.

800 Hear Ohio Astronaut Speak at Scout Jamboree

More than 800 persons—Boys Scouts, Cubs, parents and leaders — heard astronaut Neil Armstrong speak at the Adventure Roundup Jamboree Saturday in the Circleville High School gymnasium.

Armstrong flew here from Houston, Tex., in an F-102 jet to speak at the jamboree. His appearance marked the culmination of a Boy Scout recruiting campaign.

He was met at Lockbourne Air Force Base Saturday morning by William Radcliff who was instrumental in bringing the astronaut to Pickaway County. A welcoming committee of scouts also was on hand.

Armstrong spoke first at a leaders' luncheon held in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway Fairgrounds. Although reservations for 75 persons had been made, 115 turned out for the luncheon, prepared by Star Grange.

HE TOLD scout leaders the country's scientific exploration financed by the government actually began with the Lewis and Clark expedition during the administration of Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States.

At the high school, he drew a parallel between the training offered to Boy Scouts and to astronauts. Armstrong noted his scout training aided him with problems confronted as an astronaut.

He cited an instance he and John Glenn, another Ohio astronaut encountered during a training session in the jungles of Panama this summer. Constant rain there kept the wood in the jungle wet. By using a method of building a fire with wet wood learned while scouts, they were able to build a fire to boil water and cook.

Armstrong told the scouts that by the time many of them finished school, the U.S. space program would in all probability have sent a man to the moon and back.

He stressed the need of an adequate education for the youth of America.

Also present for the event were Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Armstrong, of Wapakoneta, O., parents of the astronaut.

RADCLIFF, when he introduced the Armstrong to the group, cited the problems encountered in obtaining him for a speaker.

He was at first told the Ohio Astronaut could not speak at the function. However, when Armstrong told his superiors Circleville was "almost his hometown" they relented.

The program was held to honor or scouts who had recruited two or more new scouts during a recent campaign. Armstrong spoke first at a leaders' luncheon held in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway Fairgrounds. Although reservations for 75 persons had been made, 115 turned out for the luncheon, prepared by Star Grange.

Local Resident Fined, Jailed

Hunter Certain, cited into Circleville Municipal Court by the Circleville Police Department, was found guilty of two charges Friday.

He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and with assault and battery.

Entering a plea of guilty to the first charge, he was handed a fine of $100 and costs by Judge Sterling M. Lamb. He pleaded innocent to the second charge, but was ruled guilty by the Judge.

The fine was $200 and costs and he was also sentenced to a six months stay in the Pickaway County Jail. He was charged with striking his wife in the face with the butt end of a shot gun.

financed by the government actually began with the Lewis and Clark expedition during the administration of Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States.

At the high school, he drew a parallel between the training offered to Boy Scouts and to astronauts. Armstrong noted his scout training aided him with problems confronted as an astronaut.

He cited an instance he and John Glenn, another Ohio astronaut encountered during a training session in the jungles of Panama this summer. Constant rain there kept the wood in the jungle wet. By using a method of building a fire with wet wood learned while scouts, they were able to build a fire to boil water and cook.

Armstrong told the scouts that by the time many of them finished school, the U.S. space program would in all probability have sent a man to the moon and back.

He stressed the need of an adequate education for the youth of America.

Also present for the event were Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Armstrong, of Wapakoneta, O., parents of the astronaut.

RADCLIFF, when he introduced the Armstrong to the group, cited the problems encountered in obtaining him for a speaker.

He was at first told the Ohio Astronaut could not speak at the function. However, when Armstrong told his superiors Circleville was "almost his hometown" they relented.

The program was held to honor scouts who had recruited two or more new scouts during a recent campaign. Harry Diehl, Pickaway District chairman, noted that the district has recorded 54 per cent plus increase during the past two years. This makes it one of the fastest growing districts in central Ohio.

Armstrong was greeted by a standing ovation during the jamboree. Following the ceremonies he was swamped by young autograph seekers in spite of the fact they were told that a picture of all the newest astronauts bearing their signatures would be given to all who attended.

Armstrong who was a scout for five years, is a graduate of Purdue University where he obtained a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering. He was a naval aviator from 1949 through 1952, flying 78 combat missions in Korean action.

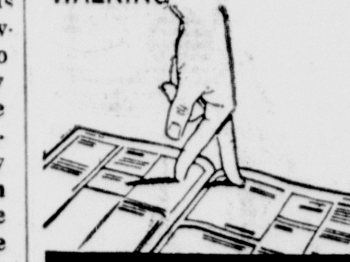

Prior to being named as one of the most recent astronauts, he was an aeronautical research pilot at the High Speed Flight Station, Edwards, California. He was born, Aug. 5, 1930 in Wapakoneta.

Radcliff was the Roundup chairman.

Navy Welcomes New Civil Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has welcomed aboard Paul H. Nitze as its new civilian chief, with belief—or hope—that he knows and understands sea power.

Nitze, sworn in Friday as secretary of the Navy, has no naval background. Moreover, he is a disciple of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, some of whose decisions ride strongly against the tide of Navy aspirations.

But Nitze has developed a familiarity with strategy and its implementation by military forces during almost three years as assistant secretary of defense for national security affairs—foreign military aid—and before that in other government and advisory capacities.

Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations, is one of the professionals who believes Nitze will be good for the Navy.

Ricketts, who has seen several changes in the Navy's leadership, measures Nitze this way: "I have talked with Mr.

Nitze frequently on naval subjects and maritime power. Of all civilians, I have found that none understands and appreciates the potentials of sea power as much as Mr. Nitze."

While this comprehension of the broad picture of naval power encourages the Navy professionals, it still leaves open the question of exactly how Nitze stands on a particular issue of sea power: the nuclear aircraft carrier and nuclear-powered Navy ships in general.

McNamara turned down the Navy's proposal to build a second atomic-powered carrier now but in doing so said this did not prejudice the matter of whether future ships should be atomic powered. He told the Navy to go ahead with building a conventionally powered flattop.

When Nitze was before the Senate Armed Services Committee which was considering his nomination, he was asked if he had any pre-conceived ideas about nuclear and conventionally powered carriers.

Nitze replied that "everybody is agreed that a nuclear carrier is superior to a conventional carrier"—a point upon which McNamara also agrees but opposes because of the cost difference.

Then Nitze noted that Congress had appropriated funds for building a conventionally powered carrier and that "a nuclear carrier would cost some $125 million more than a conventional carrier." He said McNamara had decided not to ask Congress for more funds but to go ahead with construction of the conventional carrier.

"And if I were secretary of the Navy, I would expect to execute the decision with all possible speed and continue studies that would bear upon a future carrier, as to whether it might be nuclear propelled," Nitze added.

Nitze isn't going to take up the battle of his predecessor, Fred Korth, for building another atomic carrier now.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The picture of Lee Harvey Oswald which emerges so far is that of a crybaby, self-centered, undisciplined, half-educated, a mind too poor to understand what he reads, and with delusions about himself.

When the facts are all in, he may look different. But this ex-Marine, 24, assassinated after being caught with killing President John F. Kennedy, was a nobody who clearly wanted to be somebody.

It may turn out he was part of a conspiracy. But the information revealed up to this time indicates the exact opposite. He called himself a Marxist without seeming to understand a Marxist revolution is a job for an organization. Oswald was too undisciplined to be a good organization man.

He boasted about the books he had read, but he never learned to spell well. He was dissatisfied with the American society but never learned how to do a job well enough to keep it so he could support himself in this society.

And while he kept talking of a more perfect society, in this one he skipped out on his rent.

He complained about the Soviet Union and wanted to write a book condemning it. He called himself pro-Castro and anti-Castro. He glorified the hardships his mother had suffered during the depression, before he was born, but the evidence indicates that after he was able to go to work, he contributed little or nothing to her support.

He complained to a family friend he was out of work and his wife was expecting their second baby. The friend drove to New Orleans for the wife and first child, returned to her home in Dallas with them, and took care of them for weeks.

Oswald apparently never contributed a nickel to this woman friend of the family for the support of his wife, and child and second baby but, instead, went to Mexico to arrange a trip for himself to Europe.

His problem started early. In the very short time he and his mother lived in New York he became such a delinquent in school he was given a psychiatric examination. He was found to be "wild." Perhaps the delusions showed up then.

At 17 he quit school to go into the Marines. He didn't do well under the discipline. He was court-martialed twice and was in constant conflict with other Marines.

He was given a special, hardship discharge so he could go home and help his mother, who had been badly injured at her job.

Instead of staying with his mother to help, he got a job on a freighter and, unknown to his mother but with $1,000 saved up from his Marine days, went to the Soviet Union.

In Moscow he called a news conference to announce he was defecting and wanted to become a Soviet citizen. He called himself a Marxist, said he was the youngest in the United States.

This demonstrated, at least, that he had some delusions about his importance. The Russians seemed unimpressed, withheld citizenship, and gave him a job in a factory at Minsk.

Two things happened: He got married and became disillusioned with the Soviet Union. The idea of working at the same job perhaps became too much for his undisciplined spirit. Perhaps he felt frustrated by being treated as just another worker.

The fact that he had to go to the Soviet Union to understand how it operated—that there was absolute discipline under the Communists and discipline meant work because the Communists dislike bums—is as good an insight as any into the poor quality of his mind and his stability.

He was allowed to return to this country by the American government after three years in the Soviet Union. Here he bounced around from job to job, never really competent in anything except the most menial jobs.

In the meantime he tried to call attention to himself as pro-

Castro and anti-Castro. He got into a television discussion on communism and Marxism and made a mess of himself.

Last September he went to the Cuban Consulate in Mexico City to get a visa to Cuba and the Soviet Union. When he was told it would take time he stormed out, slamming the door.

It's possible Oswald then felt rejected by both Moscow and Cuba. This is also possible, if he is the man who killed Kennedy, that he decided he would single-handedly show the Soviet and Cuban Communists how a revolutionist should act by killing the President.

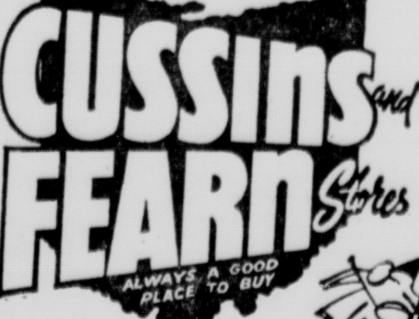

He never seemed to understand that the really effective revolutionists—like Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev—did not act singly but as part of an organization.

They looked upon the individual trying some crime on his own not as a revolutionary but as a romantic. For a Communist there is nothing so deserving of contempt as a romantic.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has welcomed aboard Paul H. Nitze as its new civilian chief, with belief—or hope—that he knows and understands sea power.

Nitze, sworn in Friday as secretary of the Navy, has no naval background. Moreover, he is a disciple of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, some of whose decisions ride strongly against the tide of Navy aspirations.

But Nitze has developed a familiarity with strategy and its implementation by military forces during almost three years as assistant secretary of defense for national security affairs—foreign military aid—and before that in other government and advisory capacities.

Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations, is one of the professionals who believes Nitze will be good for the Navy.

Ricketts, who has seen several changes in the Navy's leadership, measures Nitze this way: "I have talked with Mr.

Nitze frequently on naval subjects and maritime power. Of all civilians, I have found that none understands and appreciates the potentials of sea power as much as Mr. Nitze."

While this comprehension of the broad picture of naval power encourages the Navy professionals, it still leaves open the question of exactly how Nitze stands on a particular issue of sea power: the nuclear aircraft carrier and nuclear-powered Navy ships in general.

McNamara turned down the Navy's proposal to build a second atomic-powered carrier now but in doing so said this did not prejudice the matter of whether future ships should be atomic powered. He told the Navy to go ahead with building a conventionally powered flattop.

When Nitze was before the Senate Armed Services Committee which was considering his nomination, he was asked if he had any pre-conceived ideas about nuclear and conventionally powered carriers.

Nitze replied that "everybody is agreed that a nuclear carrier is superior to a conventional carrier"—a point upon which McNamara also agrees but opposes because of the cost difference.

Then Nitze noted that Congress had appropriated funds for building a conventionally powered carrier and that "a nuclear carrier would cost some $125 million more than a conventional carrier." He said McNamara had decided not to ask Congress for more funds but to go ahead with construction of the conventional carrier.

"And if I were secretary of the Navy, I would expect to execute the decision with all possible speed and continue studies that would bear upon a future carrier, as to whether it might be nuclear propelled," Nitze added.

Nitze isn't going to take up the battle of his predecessor, Fred Korth, for building another atomic carrier now.

When the facts are all in, he may look different. But this ex-Marine, 24, assassinated after being charged with killing President John F. Kennedy, was a nobody who clearly wanted to be somebody.

It may turn out he was part of a conspiracy. But the information revealed up to this time indicates the exact opposite. He called himself a Marxist without seeming to understand a Marxist revolution is a job for an organization. Oswald was too undisciplined to be a good organization man.

He boasted about the books he had read, but he never learned to spell well. He was dissatisfied with the American society but never learned how to do a job well enough to keep it so he could support himself in this society.

And while he kept talking of a more perfect society, in this one he skipped out on his rent.

He complained about the Soviet Union and wanted to write a book condemning it.

He called himself pro-Castro and anti-Castro. He glorified the hardships his mother had suffered during the depression, before he was born, but the evidence indicates that after he was able to go to work, he contributed little or nothing to her support.

He complained to a family friend he was out of work and his wife was expecting their second baby. The friend drove to New Orleans for the wife and first child, returned to her home in Dallas with them, and took care of them for weeks.

Oswald apparently never contributed a nickel to this woman friend of the family for the support of his wife, and child and second baby but, instead, went to Mexico to arrange a trip for himself to Europe.

His problem started early. In the very short time he and his mother lived in New York he became such a delinquent in school he was given a psychiatric examination. He was found to be "wild." Perhaps the delusions showed up then.

At 17 he quit school to go into the Marines. He didn't do well under the discipline. He was court-martialed twice and was in constant conflict with other Marines.

He was given a special, hardship discharge so he could go home and help his mother, who had been badly injured at her job.

Instead of staying with his mother to help, he got a job on a freighter and, unknown to his mother but with $1,000 saved up from his Marine days, went to the Soviet Union.

In Moscow he called a news conference to announce he was defecting and wanted to become a Soviet citizen. He called himself a Marxist, said he was the youngest in the United States.

This demonstrated, at least, that he had some delusions about his importance. The Russians seemed unimpressed, withheld citizenship, and gave him a job in a factory at Minsk.

Two things happened: He got married and became disillusioned with the Soviet Union. The idea of working at the same job perhaps became too much for his undisciplined spirit. Perhaps he felt frustrated by being treated as just another worker.

The fact that he had to go to the Soviet Union to understand how it operated—that there was absolute discipline under the Communists and discipline meant work because the Communists dislike bums—is as good an insight as any into the poor quality of his mind and his stability.

He was allowed to return to this country by the American government after three years in the Soviet Union. Here he bounced around from job to job, never really competent in anything except the most menial jobs.

In the meantime he tried to call attention to himself as pro-

Castro and anti-Castro. He got into a television discussion on communism and Marxism and made a mess of himself.

Last September he went to the Cuban Consulate in Mexico City to get a visa to Cuba and the Soviet Union. When he was told it would take time he stormed out, slamming the door.

It's possible Oswald then felt rejected by both Moscow and Cuba. This is also possible, if he is the man who killed Kennedy, that he decided he would single-handedly show the Soviet and Cuban Communists how a revolutionist should act by killing the President.

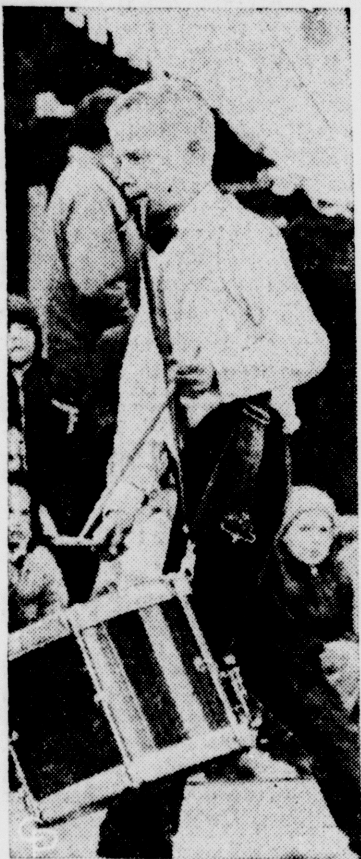

He never seemed to understand that the really effective revolutionists—like Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev—did not act singly but as part of an organization.

They looked upon the individual trying some crime on his own not as a revolutionary but as a romantic. For a Communist there is nothing so deserving of contempt as a romantic.

The firing of Otto Otepka raises a stench in the State Department. Though Otepka has been ejected from his job as a department security officer, the last has not been heard of his case.

Otepka has the right of appeal, and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee is showing a great deal of interest in how and why his dismissal came about.

Facts behind the case are strange. Otepka was charged with 13 violations of regulations, but most if not all of these were technicalities. His real "crime," in the eyes of top State Department officials, was his cooperation with the Senate subcommittee in its investigation of alleged laxity in security in the department.

Moreover, the State Department apparently resorted to illegal wiretapping in its effort to "get" Otepka.

Combining Functions

South Dakota has many counties that are losing population. Twenty have fewer than 5,000 residents. These are finding operations and financing increasingly difficult, as are some counties in other states.

But there seems to be a will in the upper plains state to do something about the situation. As a result, South Dakota voters will have an opportunity to vote in 1964 on a constitutional amendment to permit consolidation of county offices. The proposal reads:

"At their discretion, the county commissioners may submit to the electors of the county, at any general election, proposals that two or more county offices be combined and that one person be elected to the combined office."

A legislative committee has term-

Sen. Thomas Dodd, vice chairman of the subcommittee, said his group has proof that Otepka's phone was tapped. State Department officials first denied, then admitted, that at least an attempt was made to do so.

Dodd also reported that Otepka was locked out of his office, was denied access to his files which were rifled, and was humiliated before his fellow employees.

But the heart of the issue is whether a federal employee should be harassed and fired for talking to a committee of Congress. The subcommittee had a right to the information it wanted.

Otepka has been dismissed for telling the truth—his right under the U. S. Civil Service Code which states that such "shall not be denied nor interfered with." He has been the victim of illegal tactics — wiretapping. The Senate committee should pursue the scent.

ed the approach "flexible and may be adapted to meet the different problems of the counties, and is designed to effect efficiency and economy and has the added virtue of reserving the final decision to the local electorate.

"County offices are administrative in nature rather than policymaking and could easily be merged; the consolidation of offices might simplify the record-keeping functions of some offices; substantial savings in salaries could be realized, and it could make the operation of county government more efficient."

Sooner or later voters of other states may face up to the changed conditions that call for revisions in government offices as South Dakotans seem to be doing.

Suburbanite Enjoys Misery

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Now is the time to get out the crying towel for the suburbanite.

The period of his greatest ordeal is at hand.

As a smug, lifelong lover of city life, I used to feel sorry for the people who choose to dwell out where the crabgrass grows. Pity was wasted on such a fellow.

Life in the suburbs isn't really living. It's a form of penal servitude, a system of self-punishment, and I sometimes have wondered if suburbanites aren't expiating some unforgivable sins committed in a previous existence.

There are millions of people who work here during the day and spend their nights in the bedroom villages that sprawl around the fringes of the metropolis. This forces them to become horizontal yo-yos. They are in perpetual transit.

In suburbia, the husband is a prisoner of his timetable.

In suburbia the wife is an unpaid chauffeur, a pioneer mother in a covered station wagon shepherding her kids or hubby to some place they have to get to in a desperate hurry. She sees red and green traffic lights all day. Children are supposed to be healthier in the suburbs, but for some reason they seem unable to travel on their own feet a distance of more than two blocks.

The suburbanite suffers from periodic charcoal blindness, as it is an unwritten law in the suburbs that nobody cooks in the kitchen between Easter and Thanksgiving.

The first flying snowflakes that freckle the air herald his greatest season of disaster.

On frigid days he enters the office two hours late, red-faced, wearing boots and bundled in many layers of clothing.

Wiping a dripping icicle from his nose, he announces, "Could not get the car out of the driveway. Had to push on foot to the station. Then the 8:59 didn't leave until 10:04." He doesn't get much work done. He has to save all his energy so he can get back home.

Once I asked one of these fellows, "Since it is such a nuisance, why do you bother to live in the suburbs?"

A look of wonder swept his face.

"Why?" he replied. "Why—because they are there!"

Never pity a suburbanite. He enjoys his misery.

JOE McCARTHY met an Englishman who had just returned from the far North and was full of tales of the troubles he had encountered driving a dog-sled team over the frozen wasteland. "I kept urging them on with 'Tally-ho,' 'Tally-ho,' he mourned, 'but the confounded dogs wouldn't budge. They just panted a bit and laughed in my face.'"

"You should have said 'Mush,' " advised McCarthy.

"All right," conceded the Englishman. "The dogs just panted and laughed in my mush."

"My poor husband," sighed a stout lady at the poolside of a Florida motel. "For months now he's been convinced he's a lawn mower."

"He'll get over it," predicted an optimistic acquaintance. "He'd better," snapped the stout lady grimly. "I'm getting sick of lending him to the neighbors."

Strategic Realities

By John Chamberlain

The man is a highly placed organizer for one of the Republican candidates for the presidential nomination. He wanted to speak, but he felt uncomfortable about letting words be attributed to him, for his "boss" had not yet indicated any position on the idea of calling a thirty-day moratorium on campaigning. What bothered the organizer about a truce period is that editorialists, commentators, columnists and supposedly "objective" reporters had not even waited for the funeral of President Kennedy to indulge in speculation on the political impact of the recent tragic events.

It has been freely stated already, so the organizer said, that the assassination of President Kennedy has knocked so-and-so's changes into a cocked hat; that it has increased this and that candidate's appeal, and so forth and so on. Well, thirty-day moratorium on politicking or not, the organizer thought someone ought to talk sense about the punditry that is going on. He thinks the punditry has been silly.

What the Republican candidate's organizer insisted was that nothing really fundamental had been changed in regard to 1964. "Let's talk about the Democratic Party," he said. "During the past thirty years it has, in the north, become the 'liberal' party, making its appeal to the leaders of the labor unions, the ethnic vote in the cities, the liberal intellectuals, and so on. In the South the party is in trouble, giving rise to defections that have resulted in Republican gains."

"Now, how does the fact that Lyndon Johnson has become the Democratic standard-bearer change a single pattern? The strategy of the party must remain more or less the same. As a matter of fact, Lyndon Johnson, if he is to hold liberal Democrats, must be even tougher than Kennedy on the civil rights issue and labor. Where Kennedy might have compromised and gotten away with it, Johnson may feel that he has to prove himself to liberal and labor groups that could be dubious about him. No, the accession of Johnson doesn't change the alignments of his party on basic questions."

So let's look at the Republican situation through the organizer's eyes. As it appears to him, the fact that the Democrats must be "left-liberal" to have a chance of winning means that forces have been set in motion that must end in a conservative domination of Republicanism. If not in 1964, then in 1968. The Goldwaterites, according to the organizer, have been the beneficiaries not so much of Senator Goldwater's personal appeal as they have of an intense and always increasing search for principle. In a two-party system, so the organizer says, if one party goes predominantly one way, the other party must eventually go the other if it is to continue a vital existence.

So the strategies can't change for the long run, in the opinion of the organizer. What was true last summer will be true next summer.

We questioned the organizer closely about the probable margins in certain critical areas now that Johnson is the Democratic leader. The fact that

Johnson is from Texas, so the organizer said, won't keep southerners from opposing him if he takes an extreme stand on such things as qualifying the property right in relation to public accommodation. As for the Republican "heartland" in the Middle West, the organizer said: "I haven't rechecked on this, but if you look up the pre-convention polls for 1960 I think you'll find that Johnson is weak in this area. So, if margins in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana decide campaigns, this could mean a good deal in 1964."

The organizer's premise is that the American people want

a choice in 1964. This does not mean that Goldwater is the only possible Republican candidate. It does not even mean that the Republican Party in convention will see its way clear to accepting the organizer's thesis that it must immediately accept the conservative position. All that the organizer wanted to say, in his temporarily enforced role of anonymous speaker, is that the virtues and drawbacks of all the Republican candidates for President remain precisely what they were when it was assumed that Kennedy would be the Democratic nominee.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Swelling of the ankles, the feet and the legs is a sign of great importance to the physician in the diagnosis of a medical ailment. Heart disease, impairment of the liver and kidneys often manifest themselves in chronic swelling of the legs.

Occasionally, swelling in these areas defies exact diagnosis. In an effort to gain additional information about the causes of this condition, a new technique is now being used. This new method is already a gratifying addition to the diagnostic equipment used to establish the condition of the lymph and the lymph gland system, an important bearing on the chronic congestion and swelling of the legs.

The lymph system is sometimes referred to as the "third vascular network." Arteries and veins are the two major networks that supply blood to the legs.

Dr. L. K. Thompson and Dr. W. G. Anyan, of Duke University, have studied 87 patients who have chronic swelling (edema) of the legs. The doctors used a technique already well established for the study of arteries and veins.

A special dye is painlessly injected into the swollen leg. The distribution of the dye and the pattern it outlines are recorded on X-Ray film. These pictures follow the dye as it is carried through the lymph channels to the lymph glands.

Already valuable information has accrued from this study to make possible the pinpointing of the causes of the lymph dysfunction that causes swollen legs.

This method of examination is called a "lymphogram." It rounds out the trio of plethogram (veins) and arteriograms (arteries) that have contributed such vital information about the condition, and gives the field of diagnosis a powerful new aid to medicine.

Engineering sciences have generously contributed to many successes in complicated surgery by applying their creativity to the special needs of an operating room.

The duration of many operations have been materially reduced by the mechanical devices invented by this scientists.

Time often becomes an important consideration that determines additional risks during surgery. When, therefore, time can be reduced to a minimum the chances for success are markedly increased.

The "sewing time" with conventional stitches has always been a painstaking and tedious process. In recent years, brilliantly conceived stapling devices have been created to replace hand-stitching, thus reducing stitching time to a fraction of its former duration.

Blood vessels and their replacements have been stapled with great speed and security. Intestinal walls are rapidly stapled while the delicate tissue is carefully protected.

The tiny staples are made of non-irritating metal with the thickness of ordinary hair.

Now a new automatic stapling device has been created by Dr. Morris J. Levy of the University of Minnesota. It has already been successfully used on the delicate valves of the heart, the bronchial tubes, and on tiny blood vessels.

In appearance it resembles the ordinary household stapler. It can be easily sterilized and has great potential for stapling tissue deep within the body.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JOE MCCARTHY met an Englishman who had just returned from the far North and was full of tales of the troubles he had encountered driving a dog-sled team over the frozen wasteland. "I kept urging them on with 'Tally-ho,' 'Tally-ho,' he mourned, 'but the confounded dogs wouldn't budge. They just panted a bit and laughed in my face.'"

"You should have said 'Mush,'" advised McCarthy.

"All right," conceded the Englishman. "The dogs just panted and laughed in my mush."

Tony Martin made one record last year that sold a hundred thousand copies in Rome alone. "Don't get too conceited about that, however," cautioned his agent. "It turned out that the Romans thought it was a licorice pizza."

"My poor husband," sighed a stout lady at the poolside of a Florida motel. "For months now he's been convinced he's a lawn mower."

"He'll get over it," predicted an optimistic acquaintance. "He'll get over it," snapped the stout lady grimly. "I'm getting sick of lending him to the neighbors."

Strategic Realities

By John Chamberlain

The man is a highly placed organizer for one of the Republican candidates for the presidential nomination. He wanted to speak, but he felt uncomfortable about letting words be attributed to him, for his "boss" had not yet indicated any position on the idea of calling a thirty-day moratorium on campaigning. What bothered the organizer about a truce period is that editorialists, commentators, columnists and supposedly "objective" reporters had not even waited for the funeral of President Kennedy to indulge in speculation on the political impact of the recent tragic events.

It has been freely stated already, so the organizer said, that the assassination of President Kennedy has knocked so-and-so's changes into a cocked hat; that it has increased this and that candidate's appeal, and so forth and so on. Well, thirty-day moratorium on politicking or not, the organizer thought someone ought to talk sense about the punditry that is going on. He thinks the punditry has been silly.

What the Republican candidate's organizer insisted was that nothing really fundamental had been changed in regard to 1964. "Let's talk about the Democratic Party," he said. "During the past thirty years it has, in the north, become the 'liberal' party, making its appeal to the leaders of the labor unions, the ethnic vote in the cities, the liberal intellectuals, and so on. In the South the party is in trouble, giving rise to defections that have resulted in Republican gains."

"Now, how does the fact that Lyndon Johnson has become the Democratic standard-bearer change a single pattern? The strategy of the party must remain more or less the same. As a matter of fact, Lyndon Johnson, if he is to hold liberal Democrats, must be even tougher than Kennedy on the civil rights issue and labor. Where Kennedy might have compromised and gotten away with it, Johnson may feel that he has to prove himself to liberal and labor groups that could be dubious about him. No, the accession of Johnson doesn't change the alignments of his party on basic questions."

So let's look at the Republican situation through the organizer's eyes. As it appears to him, the fact that the Democrats must be "left-liberal" to have a chance of winning means that forces have been set in motion that must end in a conservative domination of Republicanism. If not in 1964, then in 1968. The Goldwaterites, according to the organizer, have been the beneficiaries not so much of Senator Goldwater's personal appeal as they have of an intense and always increasing search for principle. In a two-party system, so the organizer says, if one party goes predominantly one way, the other party must eventually go the other if it is to survive a vital existence.

So the strategies can't change for the long run, in the opinion of the organizer. What was true last summer will be true next summer.

We questioned the organizer closely about the probable margins in certain critical areas now that Johnson is the Democratic leader. The fact that

Johnson is from Texas, so the organizer said, won't keep southerners from opposing him if he takes an extreme stand on such things as qualifying the property right in relation to public accommodation. As for the Republican "heartland" in the Middle West, the organizer said: "I haven't rechecked on this, but if you look up the pre-convention polls for 1960 I think you'll find that Johnson is weak in this area. So, if margins in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana decide campaigns, this could mean a good deal in 1964."

The organizer's premise is that the American people want

a choice in 1964. This does not mean that Goldwater is the only possible Republican candidate. It does not even mean that the Republican Party in convention will see its way clear to accepting the organizer's thesis that it must immediately accept the conservative position. All that the organizer wanted to say, in his temporarily enforced role of anonymous speaker, is that the virtues and drawbacks of all the Republican candidates for President remain precisely what they were when it was assumed that Kennedy would be the Democratic nominee.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Swelling of the ankles, the feet and the legs is a sign of great importance to the physician in the diagnosis of a medical ailment. Heart disease, impairment of the liver and kidneys often manifest themselves in chronic swelling of the legs.

Occasionally, swelling in these areas defies exact diagnosis. In an effort to gain additional information about the causes of this condition, a new technique is now being used. This new method is already a gratifying addition to the diagnostic equipment used to establish the condition of the lymph and the lymph gland system, an important bearing on the chronic congestion and swelling of the legs.

The lymph system is sometimes referred to as the "third vascular network." Arteries and veins are the two major networks that supply blood to the legs.

Dr. L. K. Thompson and Dr. W. G. Anyan, of Duke University, have studied 87 patients who have chronic swelling (edema) of the legs. The doctors used a technique already well established for the study of arteries and veins.

A special dye is painlessly injected into the swollen leg. The distribution of the dye and the pattern it outlines are recorded on X-Ray film. These pictures follow the dye as it is carried through the lymph channels to the lymph glands.

Already valuable information has accrued from this study to make possible the pinpointing of the causes of the lymph dysfunction that causes swollen legs. This method of examination is called a "lymphogram." It rounds out the trio of phlebogram (veins) and arteriogram (arteries) that have contributed such vital information about the condition, and gives the field of diagnosis a powerful new aid to medicine.

Engineering sciences have generously contributed to many successes in complicated surgery by applying their creativity to the special needs of an operating room.

The duration of many operations have been materially reduced by the mechanical devices invented by these scientists.

Time often becomes an important consideration that determines additional risks during surgery. When, therefore, time can be reduced to a minimum the chances for success are markedly increased. The "sewing time" with conventional stitches has always been a painstaking and tedious process. In recent years, brilliantly conceived stapling devices have been created to replace hand-stitching, thus reducing stitching time to a fraction of its former duration.

Blood vessels and their replacements have been stapled with great speed and security. Intestinal walls are rapidly stapled while the delicate tissue is carefully protected.

The tiny staples are made of non-irritating metal with the thinness of ordinary hair.

Now a new automatic stapling device has been created by Dr. Morris J. Levy of the University of Minnesota. It has already been successfully used on the delicate valves of the heart, the bronchial tubes, and on tiny blood vessels.

In appearance it resembles the ordinary household stapler. It can be easily sterilized and has great potential for stapling tissue deep within the body.

Dear Abby: This Could Backfire!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ever since I've been married, on special occasions like Christmas, my anniversary or birthday, my husband gives me presents I can't brag about. What I mean is, I am glad to get a new refrigerator or stove or washing machine, but do you think household appliances can be considered "gifts"? Please don't think I'm unappreciative, but just once I wish my husband would give me some luxury item on a special occasion.

CHEATED

DEAR ABBY: Send me your name and address and I'll tip him off. But don't blame me if you get a dozen roses for Christmas instead of an electric blanket.

DEAR ABBY: Here is the story: A college man invited his mother to parents' week-end. She drove over 200 miles and arrived Friday afternoon. Her son spent one hour with her, then disappeared with her car for the rest of the day and that entire evening. Saturday morning he spent another hour with her, and then took off again in her car for the rest of that day and evening. In the meantime, the mother wandered around the campus alone, trying to follow the program planned for the parents. Everywhere she saw college students with their parents. Was she justified in going to his dormitory, using her duplicate car keys and leaving early Sunday morning without bidding her son goodbye? She left word at the house where she stayed that she had gone home.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In a word, yes.

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged to a boy and I caught him stepping out with my best friend, so I broke it off. I missed him something terrible, and he begged me to take him back, so I did. Well, he stepped out on me again with another girl. We were supposed to get married this summer. He said maybe we should wait a while because he thinks there is still some wild life left in him. He is 23 and I am 29. What should I do?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: Believe him. He is trying to tell you that he isn't ready to settle down.

Steel Output Running High Production Topped Only by Year '57

CLEVELAND (AP)—The nation's steel production so far this year already surpasses that of any full year since 1957, the magazine Steel reported today.

Ingot production in the mills reached the 100-million-ton mark Thanksgiving Day, the national metalworking weekly said.

At the rate mills are pouring steel, the magazine predicted, 1963 output will be around 108 million tons. In contrast 1962's total production was 98.3 million tons and 1957's was 112.7 million tons.

Steel demand is rising across the board, the magazine reported.

The publication said producers expect to book more tonnage this month than they sold in November, and they hope to maintain their current shipping pace the rest of the year.

"Automakers are buying heavily for January delivery," Steel said. "So are many other customers — makers of appliances, farm equipment, earth-moving machinery, machine tools and railroad cars. Cannockers also are stepping up purchases."

This week's production is expected to be about the same as the 1,995,000 tons that Steel estimated the industry poured last week. It was unchanged then from the previous week's output despite holiday interruptions.

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1963. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1929, the U.S. government called upon China and Russia to avoid war like measures in Manchuria and attempt to settle peacefully their dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway. The United States notified 53 other nations of its action.

On this date:

In 1784, George Washington gave the name "Empire State" to New York in a letter to the Common Council.

In 1873, the Reformed Episcopal Church in the United States was organized.

In 1919, President Woodrow Wilson sent Congress a message in which he urged the lowering of taxes and that the industry be curbed and democratized.

In 1942, the Atomic Age was born in Chicago with a demonstration of nuclear chain reaction.

In 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower rejected the idea of a U.S. blockade of Communist China as an act of war.

Ten years ago—U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge charged in the United Nations riots inside U.N. prison camps in Korea were directed by General Nam Il at the same time Nam Il was representing the North Korean and Chinese Communists in the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

Five years ago—Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota held an eight-hour meeting in Moscow with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and said he saw no room for compromise on the Berlin situation.

One year ago — U.N. Secretary General U Thant expressed hope that the spirit of compromise could be extended to outstanding cold war problems between East and West.

Wilmington Student Ranks High as Judge

CHICAGO (AP)—David Ames of Wilmington, Ohio, a student on the Ohio State University team, finished in a tie for third place Sunday in individual competition in the annual collegiate livestock judging contest of the International Live Stock Exposition.

Ames amassed 914 out of a possible 1,000 points. Iowa State won the team championship and individual title.

Mrs. Kennedy's Step-by-Step Ordeal Is Recreated by AP Woman Reporter

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — She chose a gay pink suit that day and was late getting started. Her husband explained her absence to several thousand cheering Texans.

"Mrs. Kennedy is busy organizing herself," he confided in an 8:45 a.m. (CST), politicking appearance. "It takes a little longer, you know, but then she looks so much better then we do."

There was the inevitable bouquet of red roses as President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Dallas, Tex., that fair Friday of Nov. 22. The red clashed with the pink of her wool suit and pillbox hat.

They stepped into the big dark blue convertible they had shared on so many state occasions and the winding 11-mile motorcade began.

The crowds stood 10 to 12 deep on sidewalks and cheered them. They sat there smiling—President Kennedy, Gov. John Connally of Texas and their wives — saying what a fine welcome the Kennedys had been given after all.

Mrs. Kennedy, just resuming official activities after the death of her infant son three months ago, had not been on a speech-making tour since 1960. It was her first visit to Texas. She shook hands freely in the crowds, won cheers with a 73-word speech in Spanish, and admitted she was enjoying campaigning.

They had expected trouble in Republican Dallas, a center of political conservatism, but their reception as being described as "magnificent."

"Mr. President, they can't make you believe now that there are not some in Dallas who love and appreciate you," said Gov. Connally's wife, Nellie.

"You should know, you sure can't," said the President as the big car, taking them to luncheon at the trade mart, approached the six-story Texas School Depository building at 12:30 p.m.

Suddenly, there were those three sharp cracks that sounded more like fireworks.

Mrs. Kennedy cried out "Oh, no!" as her husband fell back, face down on the back seat, blood spurting from wounds in his head and neck.

She tried to lift him and cradle his head in her lap.

"Oh, my God! They've killed my husband," she cried.

"Jack, Jack," she called the name of the handsome, 46-year-old man who had been smiling beside her moments before. But John F. Kennedy, the man she had married 10 years ago, never regained consciousness.

The Secret Service man, who had been with her for three years, came leaping over the back of the car to throw himself spread-eagled over them. Mrs. Kennedy reached a hand to help him.

The four in the car feared they might all be shot. As a bullet slammed into his back, Connally shouted:

"My God, they're going to kill us all."

"Get this car out of here," snapped an agent. And, the limousine made a breakneck dash for Parkland Hospital.

Mrs. Kennedy cradled her husband's head and wept. When she walked with his stretcher to the hospital emergency room, the blood stained her pink suit and soaked one stocking.

The red roses lay crushed on the floor of the car.

As she waited outside the emergency room while doctors

made their futile efforts, Mrs. Kennedy seemed to know her husband was dying.

She was dazed and shocked. A priest administered last rites. Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, friends and associates hovered about.

A medical student later described Mrs. Kennedy:

"The look in her eyes was like an animal that had been trapped, like a little rabbit — brave, but fear was in her eyes."

But in her grief, Mrs. Kennedy remembered others. She thanked the priest who administered last rites. "Pray for him (Kennedy)," she begged.

Her voice was clear and audible as she said responses to prayers with others. There were no hysterics.

Kennedy was declared dead at 1 p.m. The chief neurosurgeon, Dr. Kemp Clark, gently told Mrs. Kennedy the news she had guessed.

"She, like everyone else around there had a paralyzed look. We just couldn't believe this could happen," the priest said.

The events of that day and the ordeal that followed for Mrs. Kennedy were like a Greek tragedy.

There was hardly time to think. And there was to be no privacy for this widow. She had lost an infant son three months ago and now her husband, just at a time when the family was preparing to observe the birthdays of their two children, Caroline, now 6, and John Jr., 3, and to spend a happy Thanksgiving with the Kennedy family at Cape Cod.

In the 75 hours from Kennedy's death until his coffin was lowered into a grave at Arlington National Cemetery Monday, Nov. 25, Mrs. Kennedy was spared little.

The death and funeral of John Fitzgerald Kennedy and his widow's grief were a public display.

The world knew of the private and touching moment at the hospital when Mrs. Kennedy had tearfully kissed her husband's lifeless lips and put her wedding ring on his finger.

Then the bronze coffin was closed, never to be opened again in public.

Mrs. Kennedy had started to show the determination to carry on in her husband's tradition of personal courage.

In contrast to the many happy occasions, it was an eerie sight at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, where a great outpouring of reporters, cameramen and officials had gathered in the floodlight 6 p.m. darkness.

The Kennedys had walked gaily aboard the Air Force One jet two days before. Mrs. Kennedy had turned to wave to son John, who took the helicopter ride from the White House to see them off.

Now a great, ungainly yellow cargo lift lowered Kennedy's casket, with Mrs. Kennedy standing beside it, holding tightly to the hand of her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. Her face showed her anguish, but she retained composure.

A grey Navy ambulance waited. With so many there to help her, Mrs. Kennedy somehow reached out to open the ambulance door herself.

They went to Bethesda Naval Hospital. For almost 10 hours Mrs. Kennedy waited there while doctors performed an autopsy and the President's body was prepared for burial.

Mrs. Kennedy stayed there because she did not want to leave the body, aides said. She took no sedatives.

With courage rarely seen, she began almost at once to plan the funeral. She wanted it to be "as distinguished a tribute as possible," the White House said.

She approved the burial in a site among Arlington National Cemetery's 126,000 dead, she requested an eternal flame in his memory, she started discussing plans for a monument.

Mrs. Kennedy chose to pattern Kennedy's funeral after that of Abraham Lincoln, simulating a martyr almost 100 years ago.

At 4:25 a.m.—16 hours after he was shot — Mrs. Kennedy brought her husband home to the White House. Mrs. Kennedy would not change her clothes and the bloodstained badge was there as she followed the casket into the White House.

Once home, Mrs. Kennedy had to face her children, and make plans for a future home she quickly decided would be in Washington.

The next day, Mrs. Kennedy took her children to pray at the casket in the East room. Then more than 4,000 friends, officials, congressmen, diplomats, staff members and newsmen came to pay respects in a day-long downpour of rain that seemed to symbolize the tragedy.

Mrs. Kennedy stayed in seclusion and the new President left the White House to the grieving Kennedys.

In the next two days, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, 34, a former debutante and product of elegant schools, became a dramatic figure.

A London newspaper said she gave the American people "the one thing they always lacked—majesty."

One-Legged Bill Veeck Offers Advice to Girl

CLEVELAND (AP) — Most people know Bill Veeck as the former owner of the Cleveland Indians and an extraordinary showman while an executive for the old St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox.

Christine Simko, 14, whose right leg was amputated Nov. 11 because of a malignant tumor, now knows Veeck as a friend with whom she has something in common. Veeck, too, has only one leg.

Convalescing at Cleveland Metropolitan Hospital Christine received a letter of encouragement from Veeck, who now lives in Easton, Md. It read, in part, that Veeck decided to write Christine "because there is such a great similarity between our experiences."

"You see, I too have but one leg and I too had mine removed in Cleveland. I didn't want them to remove my leg. I had 10 or 11 operations performed in a vain attempt to keep it. I always have been in the athletic field and I felt that to lose a major part of one's body would certainly be the beginning of the end of my normal life."

Veeck said he wished he had let the doctors perform the operation when it was first suggested.

"It would have saved a great deal of pain and discomfort and would have given me a two-year head start on going on with the more important problem of living," he said.

"I know exactly the thoughts that are passing through your mind. 'How can one lead a normal life with only one leg? And I'll be a cripple, etc.'"

"They just aren't so, however," Veeck wrote. "In reality, you can do anything that you decide you want to, and do it just about as well as you decide. 'If I can be of any help at all in the future, don't hesitate to call. You see, those of us whose feet can only get half as cold have to stick together.'"

Wilmington Hospital Founder Dies at 79

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Services for Dr. William Kelley Hale, founder, owner and for many years chief surgeon of Hale Hospital here, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday in the First Christian Church.

Dr. Hale, 79, who began practice in Wilmington in 1909, died Saturday. He was widely known for his writings on health and surgery, which were published in numerous medical journals.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The nation's steel production so far this year already surpasses that of any full year since 1957, the magazine Steel reported today.

Ingot production in the mills reached the 100-million-ton mark Thanksgiving Day, the national metalworking weekly said.

At the rate mills are pouring steel, the magazine predicted, 1963 output will be around 108 million tons. In contrast 1962's total production was 98.3 million tons and 1957's was 112.7 million tons.

Steel demand is rising across the board, the magazine reported.

The publication said producers expect to book more tonnage this month than they sold in November, and they hope to maintain their current shipping pace the rest of the year.

"Automakers are buying heavily for January delivery," Steel said. "So are many other customers—makers of appliances, farm equipment, earth-moving machinery, machine tools and railroad cars. Cannamakers also are stepping up purchases."

This week's production is expected to be about the same as the 1,995,000 tons that Steel estimated the industry poured last week. It was unchanged then from the previous week's output despite holiday interruptions.

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1963. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1929, the U.S. government called upon China and Russia to avoid war like measures in Manchuria and attempt to settle peacefully their dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway. The United States notified 53 other nations of its action.

On this date:

In 1784, George Washington gave the name "Empire State" to New York in a letter to the Common Council.

In 1873, the Reformed Episcopal Church in the United States was organized.

In 1919, President Woodrow Wilson sent Congress a message in which he urged the lowering of taxes and that the industry be curbed and democratized.

In 1942, the Atomic Age was born in Chicago with a demonstration of nuclear chain reaction.

In 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower rejected the idea of a U.S. blockade of Communist China as an act of war.

Ten years ago—U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge charged in the United Nations riots inside U.N. prison camps in Korea were directed by General Nam Il at the same time Nam Il was representing the North Korean and Chinese Communists in the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

Five years ago—Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota held an eight-hour meeting in Moscow with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and said he saw no room for compromise on the Berlin situation.

One year ago — U.N. Secretary General U Thant expressed hope that the spirit of compromise could be extended to outstanding cold war problems between East and West.

Mrs. Kennedy's Step-by-Step Ordeal Is Recreated by AP Woman Reporter

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — She choose a gay pink suit that day and was late getting started.

Her husband explained her absence to several thousand cheering Texans.

"Mrs. Kennedy is busy organizing herself," he confided in an 8:45 a.m. (CST), politicking appearance. "It takes a little longer, you know, but then she looks so much better then we do."

There was the inevitable bouquet of red roses as President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived in Dallas, Tex., that fair Friday of Nov. 22. The red clashed with the pink of her wool suit and pillbox hat.

They stepped into the big dark blue convertible they had shared on so many state occasions and the winding 11-mile motorcade began.

The crowds stood 10 to 12 deep on sidewalks and cheered them. They sat there smiling—President Kennedy, Gov. John Connally of Texas and their wives—saying what a fine welcome the Kennedys had been given after all.

Mrs. Kennedy, just resuming official activities after the death of her infant son three months ago, had not been on a speech-making tour since 1960. It was her first visit to Texas. She shook hands freely in the crowds, won cheers with a 73-word speech in Spanish, and admitted she was enjoying campaigning.

They had expected trouble in Republican Dallas, a center of political conservatism, but their reception as being described as "magnificent."

"Mr. President, they can't make you believe now that there are not some in Dallas who love and appreciate you," said Gov. Connally's wife, Nellie.

"You should know, you sure can't," said the President as the big car, taking them to luncheon at the trade mart, approached the six-story Texas School Depository building at 12:30 p.m.

Suddenly, there were those three sharp cracks that sounded more like fireworks.

Mrs. Kennedy cried out "Oh, no!" as her husband fell back, face down on the back seat, blood spurting from wounds in his head and neck.

She tried to lift him and cradle his head in her lap.

"Oh, my God! They've killed my husband," she cried.

"Jack, Jack," she called the name of the handsome, 46-year-old man who had been smiling beside her moments before. But John F. Kennedy, the man she had married 10 years ago, never regained consciousness.

The Secret Service man, who had been with her for three years, came leaping over the back of the car to throw himself spread-eagled over them. Mrs. Kennedy reached a hand to help him.

The four in the car feared they might all be shot. As a bullet slammed into his back, Connally shouted:

"My God, they're going to kill us all!"

"Get this car out of here," snapped an agent. And, the limousine made a breakneck dash for Parkland Hospital.

Mrs. Kennedy cradled her husband's head and wept. When she walked with his stretcher to the hospital emergency room, the blood stained her pink suit and soaked one stocking.

The red roses lay crushed on the floor of the car.

As she waited outside the emergency room while doctors

made their futile efforts, Mrs. Kennedy seemed to know her husband was dying.

She was dazed and shocked. A priest administered last rites. Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, friends and associates hovered about.

A medical student later described Mrs. Kennedy:

"The look in her eyes was like an animal that had been trapped, like a little rabbit—brave, but fear was in her eyes."

But in her grief, Mrs. Kennedy remembered others. She thanked the priest who administered last rites. "Pray for him (Kennedy)," she begged.

Her voice was clear and audible as she said responses to prayers with others. There were no hysterics.

Kennedy was declared dead at 1 p.m. The chief neurosurgeon, Dr. Kemp Clark, gently told Mrs. Kennedy the news she had guessed.

"She, like everyone else around there had a paralyzed look. We just couldn't believe this could happen," the priest said.

The events of that day and the ordeal that followed for Mrs. Kennedy were like a Greek tragedy.

There was hardly time to think. And there was to be no privacy for this widow. She had lost an infant son three months ago and now her husband, just at a time when the family was preparing to observe the birth of their two children, Caroline, now 6, and John Jr., 3, and to spend a happy Thanksgiving with the Kennedy family at Cape Cod.

In the 75 hours from Kennedy's death until his coffin was lowered into a grave at Arlington National Cemetery Monday, Nov. 25, Mrs. Kennedy was spared little.

The death and funeral of John Fitzgerald Kennedy and his widow's grief were a public display.

The world knew of the private and touching moment at the hospital when Mrs. Kennedy had tearfully kissed her husband's lifeless lips and put her wedding ring on his finger.

Then the bronze coffin was closed, never to be opened again in public.

Mrs. Kennedy had started to show the determination to carry on in her husband's tradition of personal courage.

In contrast to the many happy occasions, it was an eerie sight at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, where a great outpouring of reporters, cameramen and officials had gathered in the floodlight 6 p.m. darkness.

The Kennedys had walked gaily aboard the Air Force One jet two days before. Mrs. Kennedy had turned to wave to son John, who took the helicopter ride from the White House to see them off.

Now a great, ungainly yellow cargo lift lowered Kennedy's casket, with Mrs. Kennedy standing beside it, holding tightly to the hand of her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. Her face showed her anguish, but she retained composure.

A grey Navy ambulance waited. With so many there to help her, Mrs. Kennedy somehow reached out to open the ambulance door herself.

They went to Bethesda Naval Hospital. For almost 10 hours Mrs. Kennedy waited there while doctors performed an autopsy and the President's body was prepared for burial.

Mrs. Kennedy stayed there because she did not want to leave the body, aides said. She took no sedatives.

With courage rarely seen, she began almost at once to plan the funeral. She wanted it to be "as distinguished a tribute as possible," the White House said.

The funeral of John F. Kennedy came on Monday, Nov. 25—three endless days after his assassination and on the third birthday of John Jr. The rites lasted five hours and Mrs. Kennedy stood unflinching through most of the long pageantry. But twice tears filled her eyes.

Twelve hundred persons had been invited to St. Matthews Cathedral, including Kennedy's distant Irish cousin, Mary Ann Ryan, who had entertained the President at his ancestral home in County Wexford in June.

This time with a long black veil shielding her face, Mrs. Kennedy led the eight-block march from the White House to the church with world leaders following her and the caisson.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, who had married the Kennedys, baptized their children and said the funeral mass for infant Patrick, officiated at Kennedy's funeral.

Tears came when Mrs. Kennedy had to wait halfway down the cathedral aisle while the body was placed on the caisson for the last ride to Arlington.

Six-year-old Caroline wept. Too John Jr., hardly able to grasp the significance of it all, saluted as the coffin left the cathedral.

At Arlington, after the Taps sounded and she had lighted the eternal flame, Mrs. Kennedy suddenly turned to Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chief of the joint chiefs of staff, embraced him and pressed her veiled cheek against his, her eyes filling.

But, she walked firmly out of the cemetery, clutching the flag which had covered the coffin.

Five times, Mrs. Kennedy returned to the grave in the next three days, once late at night. She took Caroline once.

She urged President Johnson to rename Cape Canaveral to Cape Kennedy in memory of her late husband's interest in space exploration—and it was done.

Then, she left for seclusion and a Thanksgiving reunion with the Kennedy family at Cape Cod.

Many memorials have been suggested the world over for Kennedy. But what could match the one his wife gave him?

—kings, queens, princes, presidents, premiers—looked on, and nationwide television focused on her every heart-rending moment. Mrs. Kennedy spared herself nothing.

One-Legged Bill Veeck Offers Advice to Girl

CLEVELAND (AP) — Most people know Bill Veeck as the former owner of the Cleveland Indians and an extraordinary showman while an executive for the old St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox.

Christine Simko, 14, whose right leg was amputated Nov. 11 because of a malignant tumor, now knows Veeck as a friend with whom she has something in common. Veeck, too, has only one leg.

Convalescing at Cleveland Metropolitan Hospital Christine received a letter of encouragement from Veeck, who now lives in Easton, Md. It read, in part, that Veeck decided to write Christine "because there is such a great similarity between our experiences."

"You see, I too have but one leg and I too had mine removed in Cleveland. I didn't want them to remove my leg. I had 10 or 11 operations performed in a vain attempt to keep it. I always have been in the athletic field and I felt that to lose a major part of one's body would certainly be the beginning of the end of my normal life."

Veeck said he wished he had let the doctors perform the operation when it was first suggested.

"It would have saved a great deal of pain and discomfort and would have given me a two-year head start on going on with

Loyola Heavily Favored To Retain U.S. Cage Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach George Ireland's Ramblers from Chicago Loyola will have four returning starters in their lineup tonight when they open defense of their national collegiate basketball championship against North Dakota.

Only All-America Jerry Harkness, who graduated, is lost from the team the compiled a 29-2 record and upset Cincinnati in the NCAA finals last year.

So it's no surprise that the talented Ramblers are heavily favored to repeat as the nation's best in The Associated Press' pre-season poll. They're top-sided favorites to win their opener against little North Dakota, which absorbed an 80-50 drubbing from DePaul Saturday.

The opening night results generally followed form, with Minnesota's 76-66 victory over Kansas State the only major surprise.

CHS Cagers Drop 3rd Tilt, 59-45 At Chillicothe

By STEVE JONES

The Circleville High School basketball team went down to defeat Saturday night for the third time this year in as many starts, suffering a 59-45 loss at Chillicothe High School.

The Tigers, in spite of the loss, played a better brand of basketball than they exhibited at Pleasant View last Wednesday. However, they still lack an authoritative offense. The Tigers committed 16 turnovers in the game.

Accuracy at the foul line kept the Tigers within striking distance for much of the game. The Red and Black cagers, paced by Tom Smith, canned 27 of 37 foul shot attempts for a 73 per cent average.

At the end of the first quarter, Chillicothe actually was on top, 17-15. Of the 17 points, 11 came from the charity stripe, including six consecutive foul shots in the last two minutes of that period.

DURING the first quarter, Bob Purcell hit six of seven charity attempts, Smith hit four of five and Tom Tootle the lone attempt he had.

In the second period Chillicothe failed to score at all from the field. Three foul shots by Smith were the only markers to go on the scoreboard. Chillicothe hit 13 points during this interlude.

With about two minutes to go in the initial half, the Cavaliers began freezing the ball. Chillicothe was staying tight in a zone defense, forcing the winners to do much of their shooting from 25 to 30 feet out.

But they were accurate at this distance. In the first half they hit over 50 per cent from the field — an exceptional average for a team playing its first ball game.

Circleville meanwhile lofted a meager 12 shots toward the baskets and were able to connect on only 3 for a 25 per cent average.

The second half saw the Tigers almost as effectively bottled up by the Cavalier defense. The main difference between the first and second halves was the fact that Chillicothe partially overcame a tendency to foul.

AND CIRCLEVILLE, desperately trying to overcome a nine-point deficit as the final period began, was more prone to commit personals.

Chillicothe had only two chances at the charity stripe during the first period. In the second, they had 26 tries for the one-point shot.

Smith scored 17 points for the evening. Purcell also hit double figures, tallying 10 on two field goals and six charity tosses. Dave Bass tallied six markers on three field goals.

For Chillicothe Ronnie Martin, a 6-2 senior, notched 17 markers while little Dave Senff, a 5-6 junior, hit three of five field goals and seven of 10 charity tosses for a total of 13 points. Steve Campbell had nine.

Starting for the Tigers were Smith, John Thomas, Doug Roth, Tootle and Purcell. That quintet played almost the entire first half.

Charlie Lewis replaced Roth in the second half and Dave Bass played in place of Bob Purcell for much of the final two periods. Chet Jery and Ron Seward came in during the latter stages of the game.

THOMAS and Smith fouled out for Chillicothe. The officials called a total of 21 personals against the Tigers and 23 against Chillicothe.

Corky Miller, Chillicothe's coach, and Don Neff of Chillicothe are graduates of University of High School and Ohio University.

The Chillicothe gym, with an estimated capacity of more than 2,500, was nearly filled for the game.

In the preliminary tilt, the Chillicothe reserves lost, 49-36, after pulling within four points at one point early in the final period.

The younger edition of the Tiger cagers trailed throughout most of the game. The score at the end of the first period was 15-8 with Chillicothe on top. By halftime the count was 25-17 and as the final period began it was 34-28.

Howard Dade paced the Chillicothe reserves with 18 points on eight field goals and two charity tosses.

JEFF MONROE and Jim Diltz had six markers each. Gary Hughes had two and Tim Stonerock tallied four.

Next week promises to be a big one for CHS cage fans. On Friday, the Tigers host Greenfield in a South Central Ohio League game and on Saturday they will entertain Teays Valley, Pickaway County's other Class AA school.

Friday night the Vikings defeated Hamilton Twp., 83-72.

Redskins Halt LEHS Rally, Win, 52-49

Kingston withstood a last quarter rally by visiting Logan Elm Saturday to post a 52-49 win over the Braves.

Trailing throughout the first three quarters, Logan Elm went ahead 43-40 near the middle of the third quarter.

But the Redskins finished strong to take the game, their fifth in seven starts. It was the second straight defeat for Logan Elm, defending Central District Class A co-champions.

The score was 12-10 at the end of the first period with the Redskins on top. By halftime they had built their margin to a 27-16 edge and as the final eight minutes began they led 39-34.

THE LEHS Braves lost the game at the charity stripe. They outscored Kingston 20 points from the field, hitting 21 of 65 attempts while the host team was connecting on 11 of 29 shots.

Kingston hit 70 per cent of their charity tosses, canning 30 of 43. Logan Elm could do no better than seven of 23 at the foul line for a 30 per cent average.

For the Braves, four men fouled out and a fifth was injured. Leaving the game via the foul route were Jeff Lutz who was high scorer of the tilt, Mike Clifton, Art Murray and Arnie Gabriel.

Gary Hardman injured his knee in the second period and sat out the remainder of the game. He had only recently undergone corrective surgery on the knee.

Lutz tallied 18 markers on seven field goals and four foul shots. High for the Redskins was Mike Search with 14 markers. Logan Elm cleared 42 rebounds from the boards while Kingston grabbed 25.

THE LOGAN ELM reserves salvaged the preliminary game by a score of 54-35. High for the winners was freshman Jim Moorehead who netted 22 points and pulled down 19 rebounds.

6 Teams Given Chance Of Winning NFL Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things were considerably clearer in the National Football League title picture today—with two weeks to go, there are only six teams left with a chance to win.

And just five with a chance to tie.

The Pittsburgh Steelers can only win or lose—they have too many ties to tie.

Action over the long weekend produced three ties in seven games, believed to be a record dating way back beyond the days when such as Kenosha, Hammond and Stepleton, for example, were in the league.

Sunday, the Chicago Bears played their second 17-17 tie in a row, this time with Minnesota. That left the Bears one-half game in front in the West over the Green Bay Packers, who tied Detroit 13-13 on Thanksgiving. The Bears are 9-1-2, the Packers 9-2-1.

In the East, the Cleveland Browns broke up the three-way deadlock at the top by trimming the St. Louis Cardinals 24-10. The New York Giants kept pace with the Browns by scratching past Dallas 34-27, as old Y. A. Tittle set an NFL career record of 197 touchdown passes.

The Browns and Giants are 9-3 each.

The Steelers played their third tie of the season and second of the year with Philadelphia, this time 20-20.

That left St. Louis and Pittsburgh tied for second, the Cards at 8-4 and the Steelers at 6-3-3.

In other Sunday games, Los Angeles won its third straight, 21-17 over San Francisco, and Baltimore whipped the Washington Redskins 36-20.

In the American Football League, San Diego defeated Houston 27-0. New York beat Kansas City 17-0 and Boston whipped Buffalo 17-7, Sunday.

Underdog Minnesota did everything to the Bears except beat them. The Vikings held Chicago to 22 yards rushing in the first half and led 17-3 at intermission, as Ron VanderKelen guided the team in place of injured Fran Tarkenton, and completed his first NFL touchdown pass.

The Bears battled back in the third quarter on a 49-yard march to close the gap and then got the break of the game. Tommy Mason fumbled on the Viking 11, and two plays later Bill Wade hit Joe Maroon on a touchdown pass for the tie.

Frank Ryan returned to form for the Browns and Jimmy Brown blasted his own season rushing record. Ryan, benched two weeks ago when the Cardinals trimmed the Browns, ridled the St. Louis defense for 210 yards, and Brown gained 179 yards on 29 carries. Jimmy also took the league scoring lead with 90 points, as he scored two touchdowns from close in.

The Browns wrapped up the game in the first half with a 21-3 lead.

Brown broke his own record of 1,527 yards set in 1958 as he ran his total to 1,677 yards with two games to go.

Tittle threw for two touchdowns against the Cowboys for 197—one more than the career mark set by Bobby Layne.

The old Bald Eagle was superb in the second half as the Giants came from behind a 27-14 halftime deficit, but he was less than sharp in the first half, when he had three passes intercepted.

The Steelers stormed back to tie the Eagles with 17 points in the fourth quarter, the last three on a 24-yard field goal by Lou Michaels with 40 seconds left. Ed Brown, who had four passes intercepted, finally found the range with two scoring tosses to Gary Ballman, and then set up the field goal. The Eagles scored twice within 40 seconds in the second quarter.

Roman Gabriel's bullet passes did the job for the Rams, who have now won five of seven since Gabriel took over at quarterback.

The results left the NFL races with about 70 possible finishes. Only the Bears can win a title outright by simply winning all their games.

All the other contenders must win them all and hope for their rivals to lose.

The only thing really certain was that the Steelers can not finish in a tie with any of the other Eastern teams. They have three ties already, and the others have none—and only two games left to play.

Tennessee Eyes Dickey as Coach

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Doug Dickey, young assistant coach at the University of Arkansas, was reported today to be Tennessee's choice as head football coach to succeed ousted Jim McDonald.

McDonald, fired Sunday after compiling a 5-5 record this fall, was named assistant athletic director to Bob Woodruff.

McDonald had been appointed head coach last June 20, following the dismissal of Bowden Wyatt.

The university's athletics board meets today at which formal announcement of the hiring of Dickey is expected.

Earl Sande rode his last thoroughbred race at the age of 54.

Loyola Heavily Favored To Retain U.S. Cage Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach George Ireland's Ramblers from Chicago Loyola will have four returning starters in their lineup tonight when they open defense of their national collegiate basketball championship against North Dakota.

Only All-America Jerry Harkness, who graduated, is lost from the team the compiled a 29-2 record and upset Cincinnati in the NCAA finals last year.

So it's no surprise that the talented Ramblers are heavily favored to repeat as the nation's best in The Associated Press' pre-season poll. They're top-sided favorites to win their opener against little North Dakota, which absorbed an 80-50 drubbing from DePaul Saturday.

The opening night results generally followed form, with Minnesota's 76-66 victory over Kansas State the only major surprise.

CHS Cagers Drop 3rd Tilt, 59-45 At Chillicothe

By STEVE JONES

The Circleville High School basketball team went down to defeat Saturday night for the third time this year in as many starts, suffering a 59-45 loss at Chillicothe High School.

The Tigers, in spite of the loss, played a better brand of basketball than they exhibited at Pleasant View last Wednesday. However, they still lack an authoritative offense. The Tigers committed 16 turnovers in the game.

Accuracy at the foul line kept the Tigers within striking distance for much of the game. The Red and Black cagers, paced by Tom Smith, canned 27 of 37 foul shot attempts for a 73 per cent average.

At the end of the first quarter, Chillicothe actually was on top, 17-15. Of the 17 points, 11 came from the charity stripe, including six consecutive foul shots in the last two minutes of that period.

DURING the first quarter, Bob Purcell hit six of seven charity attempts. Smith hit four of five and Tom Tootle the lone attempt he had.

In the second period Chillicothe failed to score at all from the field. Three foul shots by Smith were the only markers to go on the scoreboard. Chillicothe hit 13 points during this interlude.

With about two minutes to go in the initial half, the Cavaliers began freezing the ball. Chillicothe was staying tight in a zone defense, forcing the winners to do much of their shooting from 25 to 30 feet out.

But they were accurate at this distance. In the first half they hit over 59 per cent from the field — an exceptional average for a team playing its first ball game.

Circleville meanwhile lofted a meager 12 shots toward the baskets and were able to connect on only 3 for a 25 per cent average.

The second half saw the Tigers almost as effectively bottled up by the Cavalier defense. The main difference between the first and second halves was the fact that Chillicothe partially overcame a tendency to foul.

AND CIRCLEVILLE, desperately trying to overcome a nine-point deficit as the final period began, was more prone to commit personals.

Chillicothe had only two chances at the charity stripe during the first period. In the second, they had 26 tries for the one-point shot.

Smith scored 17 points for the evening. Purcell also hit double figures, tallying 10 on two field goals and six charity tosses. Dave Bass tallied six markers on three field goals.

For Chillicothe Ronnie Martin, a 6-2 senior, notched 17 markers while little Dave Senff, a 5-6 junior, hit three of five field goals and seven of 10 charity tosses for a total of 13 points. Steve Campbell had nine.

Starting for the Tigers were Smith, John Thomas, Doug Roth, Tootle and Purcell. That quintet played almost the entire first half.

Charlie Lewis replaced Roth in the second half and Dave Bass played in place of Bob Purcell for much of the final two periods. Chet Iery and Ron Seward came in during the latter stages of the game.

THOMAS and Smith fouled out for Chillicothe. The official called a total of 21 personals against the Tigers and 23 against Chillicothe.

Corky Miller, Chillicothe's coach, and Don Neff of Chillicothe both are graduates of Union High School and Ohio University.

The Chillicothe gym, with an estimated capacity of more than 2,500, was nearly filled for the game.

In the preliminary tilt, the Chillicothe reserves lost, 49-36, after pulling within four points at one point early in the final period.

The younger edition of the Tiger cagers trailed throughout most of the game. The score at the end of the first period was 15-8 with Chillicothe on top. By halftime the count was 25-17 and as the final period began it was 34-28.

Howard Dace paced the Chillicothe reserves with 18 points on eight field goals and two charity tosses.

JEFF MONROE and Jim Diltz had six markers each. Gary Hughes had two and Tim Stonerock tallied four.

Next week promises to be a big one for CHS cage fans. On Friday, the Tigers host Greenfield in a South Central Ohio League game and on Saturday they will entertain Teays Valley, Pickaway County's other Class AA school.

Friday night the Vikings defeated Hamilton Twp., 83-72.

Redskins Halt LEHS Rally, Win, 52-49

Kingston withstood a last quarter rally by visiting Logan Elm Saturday to post a 52-49 win over the Braves.

Trailing throughout the first three quarters, Logan Elm went ahead 43-40 near the middle of the third quarter.

But the Redskins finished strong to take the game, their fifth in seven starts. It was the second straight defeat for Logan Elm, defending Central District Class A co-champions.

The score was 12-10 at the end of the first period with the Redskins on top. By halftime they had built their margin to a 27-16 edge and as the final eight minutes began they led 39-34.

THE LEHS Braves lost the game at the charity stripe. They outscored Kingston 20 points from the field, hitting 21 of 65 attempts while the host team was connecting on 11 of 29 shots.

Kingston hit 70 per cent of their charity tosses, canning 30 of 43. Logan Elm could do no better than seven of 23 at the foul line for a 30 per cent average.

For the Braves, four men fouled out and a fifth was injured. Leaving the game via the foul route were Jeff Lutz who was high scorer of the tilt, Mike Clifton, Art Murray and Arnie Gabriel.

Gary Hardman injured his knee in the second period and sat out the remainder of the game. He had only recently undergone corrective surgery on the knee.

Lutz tallied 18 markers on seven field goals and four foul shots. High for the Redskins was Mike Search with 14 markers.

Logan Elm cleared 42 rebounds from the boards while Kingston grabbed 25.

THE LOGAN ELM reserves salvaged the preliminary game by a score of 54-35. High for the winners was freshman Jim Moorehead who netted 22 points and pulled down 19 rebounds.

Friday Logan Elm hosts powerful Williamsport in a Pickaway County League game. Kingston plays visiting Chillicothe Bishop Flaget.

6 Teams Given Chance Of Winning NFL Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things were considerably clearer in the National Football League title picture today—with two weeks to go, there are only six teams left with a chance to win.

And just five with a chance to tie.

The Pittsburgh Steelers can only win or lose—they have too many ties to tie.

Action over the long weekend produced three ties in seven games, believed to be a record dating way back beyond the days when such as Kenosha, Hammond and Stepleton, for example, were in the league.

Sunday, the Chicago Bears played their second 17-17 tie in a row, this time with Minnesota. That left the Bears one-half game in front in the West over the Green Bay Packers, who tied Detroit 13-13 on Thanksgiving. The Bears are 9-1-2, the Packers 9-2-1.

In the East, the Cleveland Browns broke up the three-way deadlock at the top by trimming the St. Louis Cardinals 24-10. The New York Giants kept pace with the Browns by scratching past Dallas 34-27, as old Y. A. Tittle set an NFL career record of 197 touchdown passes.

The Browns and Giants are 9-3 each.

The Steelers played their third tie of the season and second of the year with Philadelphia, this time 20-20.

That left St. Louis and Pittsburgh tied for second, the Cards at 8-4 and the Steelers at 6-3-3.

In other Sunday games, Los Angeles won its third straight, 21-17 over San Francisco, and Baltimore whipped the Washington Redskins 36-20.

In the American Football League, San Diego defeated Houston 27-0, New York beat Kansas City 17-0 and Boston whipped Buffalo 17-7, Sunday.

Underdog Minnesota did everything to the Bears except beat them. The Vikings held Chicago to 22 yards rushing in the first half and led 17-3 at intermission, as Ron VanderKelen guided the team in place of injured Fran Tarkenton, and completed his first NFL touchdown pass.

The Bears battled back in the third quarter on a 49-yard march to close the gap and then got the break of the game. Tommy Mason fumbled on the Viking 11, and two plays later Bill Wade hit Joe Marconi on a touchdown pass for the tie.

Frank Ryan returned to form for the Browns and Jimmy Brown blasted his own season rushing record. Ryan, benched two weeks ago when the Cardinals trimmed the Browns, rattled the St. Louis defense for 210 yards, and Brown gained 179 yards on 29 carries. Jimmy also took the league scoring lead with 90 points, as he scored two touchdowns from close in.

The Browns wrapped up the game in the first half with a 21-3 lead.

Brown broke his own record of 1,527 yards set in 1958 as he ran his total to 1,677 yards with two games to go.

Tittle threw for two touchdowns against the Cowboys for 197—one more than the career mark set by Bobby Layne.

The old Bald Eagle was superb in the second half as the Giants came from behind a 27-14 halftime deficit, but he was less than sharp in the first half, when he had three passes intercepted.

The Steelers stormed back to tie the Eagles with 17 points in the fourth quarter, the last three on a 24-yard field goal by Lou Michaels with 40 seconds left. Ed Brown, who had four passes intercepted, finally found the range with two scoring tosses to Gary Ballman, and then set up the field goal. The Eagles scored twice within 40 seconds in the second quarter.

Roman Gabriel's bullet passes did the job for the Rams, who have now won five of seven since Gabriel took over at quarterback.

The results left the NFL races with about 70 possible finishes. Only the Bears can win a title outright by simply winning all their games.

All the other contenders must win them all and hope for their rivals to lose.

The only thing, really certain was that the Steelers can not finish in a tie with any of the other Eastern teams. They have three ties already, and the others have none—and only two games left to play.

Business Recovers from Shock

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Business recovered quickly last week from the shock of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The stock market staged one of its greatest rallies Tuesday when exchanges reopened after having closed Monday for the funeral. It had plunged Friday after word of the shooting.

Business and financial leaders, after having had time to ponder the effects of the president's death, expressed opinions that the government and the economy would continue on an even keel.

The new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, acted immediately to close the gulf that existed between the business community and the Kennedy administration. Johnson told 35 governors Monday night: "We think that where a capitalist can put up a dollar he can get a return on it. A manager can get up early to work and with money and men he can build a better mouse-trap."

This was interpreted as his view that the profit motive is not only necessary but desirable.

The stock market rally, which caught Wall Street by surprise, was accompanied by very heavy trading. Brokers said the small investors came back into the market in force, looking for bargains from Friday's collapse.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials soared 32.03 points, its greatest gain in any day.

The New York Stock Exchange took the unprecedented step of arranging a plan for liquidation of the suspended brokerage firm, Ira Haupt & Co., and for helping its customers.

The Exchange agreed to provide up to $12 million cash to cover losses among Haupt's 20,000 customers and arranged for creditor banks to defer up to $24 million of Haupt loans.

Haupt was suspended because of financial difficulties arising from failure of a customer, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil & Refining Co. of Bayonne, N.J., to meet $18 million in margin calls on vegetable oil futures contracts.

Allied filed for bankruptcy and the ramifications of its dealings in futures spread.

People stayed away from stores Saturday and most commercial establishments were closed Monday. There was speculation that the president's death might put a crimp in early Christmas shopping.

The consensus of merchants seemed to be that holiday buying would pick up next week and proceed at a normal pace.

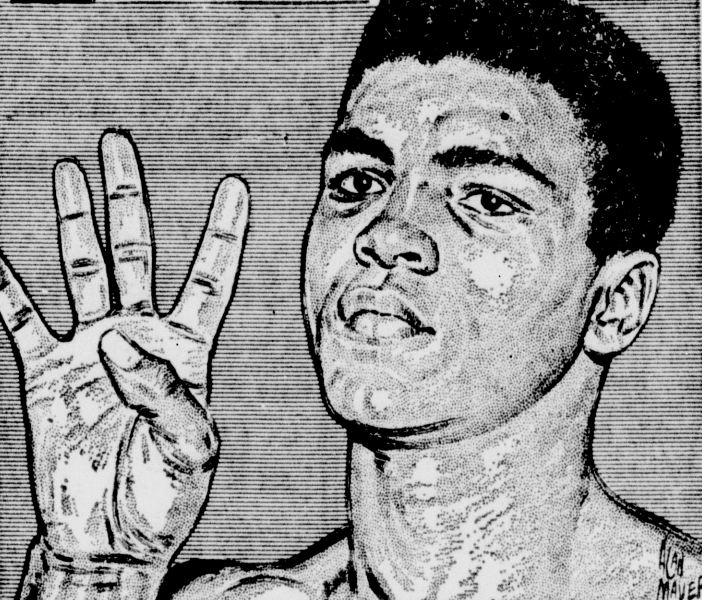

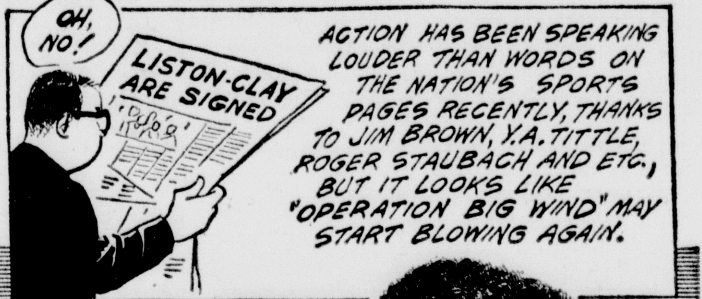

The Thanksgiving Day holiday cut into automobile and steel production.

Auto output was estimated at 145,100 passengers cars against 188,162 the previous week and 172,631 a year ago when Thanksgiving fell a week earlier.

Steel production during the week, the latest period for which figures were available, showed another rise. The total of 1,995,000 tons was up 0.8 per cent from the previous week.

Sales of stock on the New York Stock Exchange during the abbreviated three-day business week totaled 19,268,730 shares compared with 26,862,771 the previous week. The volume of bond trading was $48,965,000 par value or $16 million a day compared with the $10.2 million daily average the previous week. Total volume the previous week was $51,919,000.

Ohio College Cagers Cop 10 Intersectional Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's college basketball teams were in fine fettle this weekend, sweeping all 10 intersectional contests on a 16-game card.

As expected, nationally ranked Cincinnati and Ohio State emerged with easy victories to highlight the opening of the 1963-64 season.

Two other talent-laden clubs—Dayton and Toledo—also scored impressive triumphs.

Ron Bonham scored 31 points as the Bearcats, beaten in overtime by Loyola of Chicago last March in the NCAA finale, wall-popped George Washington, 101-65.

Coach Ed Jucker's team shot a torrid 55 per cent from the floor and coasted after building a 48-25 halftime margin. Ohio State got 20 points from All-American Gary Bradds, 18 in the first half, to breeze past California at Davis, 68-42.

The Bucks looked ragged at times but Coach Fred Taylor called their performance "not too bad for a shake-down cruise."

Sophomore Henry Finkel delivered 16 of his 25 points in a second half surge as Dayton overpowered Akron, 85-64.

And Toledo star Larry Jones showed he's fit again by scoring 37 points as the Rockets bombed Tulane, 96-60. Jones, a 6-foot-2 senior, missed virtually the entire season a year ago with a broken wrist.

Fifteen of the 16 games were played Saturday. In Sunday's only game, Xavier walloped Marion of Indianapolis, 101-77. Steve Thomas led the Musketeers with 35 points.

In an Ohio Conference meeting, small college power Wittenberg toyed with Otterbein en route to a 70-45 decision. Little All-American Al Thrasher led the attack with 23 points and 17 rebounds as the Tigers recorded their 67th straight home court victory.

Elsewhere, Kent State won its first opener since 1960 by beating Indiana State, 77-67; Miami pulled away from Findlay to gain a 67-50 verdict; Marietta defeated Morris Harvey College, 69-63, for the first time since 1930; Mount Union nipped Grove City (Pa.) 75-71; Baldwin-Wallace topped Ashland 62-50; Youngstown set a school mark in trouncing Malone 117-81; and Steubenville nipped Alliance 81-79 to capture the Wellsburg (W. Va.) Kiwanis Tournament.

Interstate 75 Bridge Dedication Awaited

CINCINNATI (AP)—Kentucky and Ohio officials will dedicate tonight the new Interstate 75 bridge over the Ohio River named the Brent Spence Bridge after the former U.S. representative from Kentucky.

A 21-gun salute in honor of the late President John F. Kennedy will be fired by the Lawler-Hanlon Veterans of Foreign Wars Post of Covington, Ky. The bridge opened to traffic last week.

Jim Maloney set a new Cincinnati strikeout record last season when he fanned 265.

Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds, pitched a one-hitter, a two-hitter and a three-hitter last season in posting 23 victories.

Bowl Picture Due To Clear

Army-Navy Game To Tell Final Tale

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The majority of the major college football bowl berths still unfilled hinge on just one game—Army-Navy.

When that one is decided, the Cotton Bowl visitors' spot will be filled—either by Navy or Pitt. And when the Cotton Bowl is decided the others are expected to fall in line just like knocking over the first of a row of dominoes.

Here's the way it works: The Rose, Sugar, Orange and Blue-bonnet bowls have their teams still to be filled are the visiting roles in the Cotton and Gator and both spots in the Liberty. Second-ranked Navy is the top contender for the Cotton Bowl berth, but won't go if it loses to Army in their classic clash in Philadelphia on Saturday. It may not go even if it wins.

Fifth-ranked Pitt is the No. 2 contender with an 8-1 record and with one game to go, against Penn State Saturday. Pitt, however, also is considered a candidate for some of the other bowls, so they all must await the outcome of the Army-Navy clash.

The Middies definitely won't go if they fail in their bid for their fifth straight victory over Army. If they win, the whole delicate situation will land in the lap of the Pentagon and may even end up on the desk of President Johnson.

If Navy doesn't go, the honor almost certainly will go to Pitt, which has lost only to Navy and marked up its eighth victory with a 31-20 decision over Miami, Fla., Saturday night.

Washington won its way into the Rose Bowl on the running of fullback Junior Coffey in a 16-0 triumph over Washington State that sealed the Big Six title Saturday. The Huskies take only a 6-4 mark into the game against Big Ten champ, Illinois, 7-1-1.

Auburn gained the Orange Bowl spot opposite Nebraska on the strength of its 10-8 upset of Alabama, engineered largely through the efforts of substitute quarterback Malin Kent.

Despite the setback, Alabama made it into the Sugar, where it will oppose Mississippi, which had to have a fourth-period field goal to tie Mississippi State 10-10.

Brilliant Don Trull scored all three touchdowns in the 21-12 Baylor victory over Rice which put the Bears in the Bluebonnet against LSU.

Dartmouth gained a share of the Ivy League title by upsetting Princeton 22-21 while Yale knocked off Harvard 20-6.

Mt. Sterling Loses, 92-60 To Clarksburg

Clarksburg romped to a 92-60 win over The Plains of Mt. Sterling Saturday night in a game played on the winners' floor.

Large with 30, Fellenstein with 25 and Jones with 20 headed the Clarksburg offense.

High men for the Blue Devils of The Plains were Hall with 21 and Starr with 18. It was the second loss for the Mt. Sterling quintet.

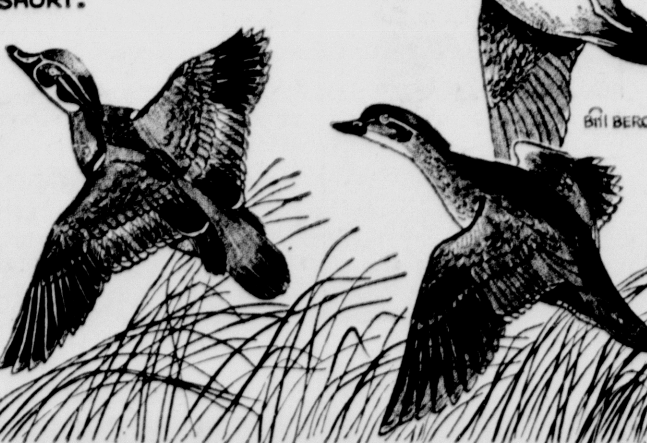

The losers committed a total of 22 turnovers in the game as the Clarksburg team pressed for the entire tilt. The winners got off to a big lead with a 23 point spurt in the first period while the Plains tallied 10.

The host school also won the preliminary tilt, 48-30, Next Friday the Blue Devils host Jonathan Alder in a Darby Valley league contest.

Unbeaten Football List Down to 18

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's list of unbeaten, untied college football teams was reduced to 18 this weekend with defeats suffered by the College of Emporia and Southwest Missouri.

Emporia was blasted by St. John's, Minn., also unbeaten and untied, 54-0 in an NAIA semifinal playoff, while Southwest Missouri fell before Northern Illinois, 21-14 in the Mineral B.W.

Texas, top-ranked in the nation and heading for the Cotton Bowl, is the only major team on the list. The Longhorns have completed a 10-0 regular season record, their first perfect mark since 1920.

All of unbeaten-untied have finished regular season play except Prairie View.

Sandy Koufax, with a 1.88 earned run average for nine innings in 1963, won the National League ERA crown for the second straight season.

The Bucks looked ragged at times but Coach Fred Taylor called their performance "not too bad for a shakedown cruise."

Sophomore Henry Finkel delivered 16 of his 25 points in a second half surge as Dayton overpowered Akron, 85-64.

And Toledo star Larry Jones showed he's fit again by scoring 37 points as the Rockets bombed Tulane, 96-60. Jones, a 6-foot-2 senior, missed virtually the entire season a year ago with a broken wrist.

Fifteen of the 16 games were played Saturday. In Sunday's only game, Xavier walloped Marion of Indianapolis, 101-77. Steve Thomas led the Musketeers with 35 points.

In an Ohio Conference meeting, small college power Wittenberg toyed with Otterbein en route to a 70-45 decision. Little All-American Al Thrasher led the attack with 23 points and 17 rebounds as the Tigers recorded their 67th straight home court victory.

Elsewhere, Kent State won its first opener since 1960 by beating Indiana State, 77-67; Miami pulled away from Findlay to gain a 67-50 verdict; Marietta defeated Morris Harvey College, 69-63, for the first time since 1930; Mount Union nipped Grove City (Pa.) 75-71; Baldwin-Wallace topped Ashland 62-50; Youngstown set a school mark in trouncing Malone 117-81; and Steubenville nipped Alliance 81-79 to capture the Wellsburg (W. Va.) Kiwanis Tournament.

Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds, pitched a one-hitter, a two-hitter and a three-hitter last season in posting 23 victories.

view that the profit motive is not only necessary but desirable.

The stock market rally, which caught Wall Street by surprise, was accompanied by very heavy trading. Brokers said the small investors came back into the market in force, looking for bargains from Friday's collapse.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials soared 32.03 points, its greatest gain in any day.

The New York Stock Exchange took the unprecedented step of arranging a plan for liquidation of the suspended brokerage firm, Ira Haupt & Co., and for helping its customers.

The Exchange agreed to provide up to $12 million cash to cover losses among Haupt's 20,000 customers and arranged for creditor banks to defer up to $24 million of Haupt loans.

Haupt was suspended because of financial difficulties arising from failure of a customer, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil & Refining Co., of Bayonne, N.J., to meet $18 million in margin calls on vegetable oil futures contracts.

Allied filed for bankruptcy and the ramifications of its dealings in futures spread.

People stayed away from stores Saturday and most commercial establishments were closed Monday. There was speculation that the president's death might put a crimp in early Christmas shopping.

The consensus of merchants seemed to be that holiday buying would pick up next week and proceed at a normal pace. The Thanksgiving Day holiday cut into automobile and steel production.

Auto output was estimated at 145,100 passengers cars against 188,162 the previous week and 172,631 a year ago when Thanksgiving fell a week earlier.

Steel production during the week, the latest period for which figures were available, showed another rise. The total of 1,995,000 tons was up 0.8 per cent from the previous week.

Sales of stock on the New York Stock Exchange during the abbreviated three-day business week totaled 19,368,730 shares compared with 26,862,771 the previous week. The volume of bond trading was $48,965,000 par value or $16 million a day compared with the $10.2 million daily average the previous week. Total volume the previous week was $51,919,000.

Cardinal Loss Gives Browns Fresh Chance

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Neither Blanton Collier of Cleveland nor Wally Lemm of St. Louis would say it, but they didn't have to.

The Browns' 24-10 victory over the Cardinals Sunday told the story; Cleveland still is in the Eastern Conference race in the National Football League and the Cardinals appear out of it. The triumph kept the Browns in a first-place tie with New York, each with 9-3 records. St. Louis fell into a third-place deadlock with Pittsburgh, a game behind the leaders. Only two games remain.

But anything can happen in the NFL and both coaches refused to count themselves in or out.

"We're not completely out of it if we can win those next two," Lemm said. "But Detroit has to beat Cleveland. Pittsburgh has to defeat New York. All we can do is win the last two and hope for the best."

Collier only looked ahead to the Lions next week. "We have to beat them first before meeting Washington," he said.

If the Browns play like they did Sunday, they should have little trouble.

Unbeaten Football List Down to 18

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's list of unbeaten, untied college football teams was reduced to 18 this weekend with defeats suffered by the College of Emporia and Southwest Missouri.

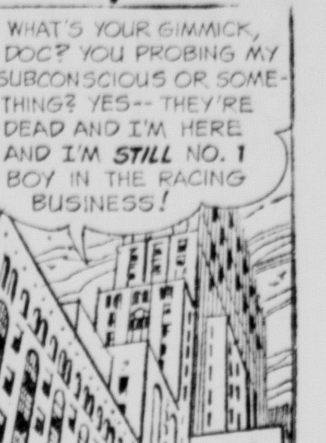

Emporia was blasted by St. John's, Minn., also unbeaten and untied, 54-0 in an NAIA semifinal playoff, while Southwest Missouri fell before Northern Illinois, 21-14 in the Mineral Bowl.

Texas, top-ranked in the nation and heading for the Cotton Bowl, is the only major team on the list. The Longhorns have completed a 10-0 regular season record, their first perfect mark since 1920.

All of unbeaten-untied have finished regular season play except Prairie View.

Sandy Koufax, with a 1.88 earned run average for nine innings in 1963, won the National League ERA crown for the second straight season.

Glick Honored for 32 Years As Farm Bureau President

T. M. Glick, who served 32 years as president of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau, was guest of honor Saturday night at a special session here.

The former Farm Bureau proxy, who lives at Route 3, was honored by the boards of directors for the local Farm Bureau and the Pickaway Dairy. The session was conducted at the Farm Bureau Home on E. Main St.

A silver cup and a lifetime membership was presented to Glick on behalf of the two boards for the long service he has extended to their organizations. The presentation was made by Chester Noecker, vice president of the local farm group.

Noecker's comments disclosed that the former president had chaired 383 out of a possible 384 board meetings during his rein as president. He also expressed the appreciation of all board members present for the time and effort Glick had given to the Farm Bureau.

On accepting the silver cup, the veteran officer stated: "This is a time when I am just lost for words." However, he expressed that it had been a pleasure and a broadening experience to be a part of an organization that is for the benefit of the farmer.

RUSSELL PALM, manager of Pickaway Dairy and Ed Johnson, Tri-County Organization director for Ohio Farm Bureau, expressed their thanks for having the privilege of working with Glick.

A report of the 45th Annual Meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation consumed a considerable portion of the meeting agenda. Mrs. Hoyt Martin, Harold Hines and John Stevenson, official delegates to the meeting, reported that more than 1,500 Farm Bureau members and 250 delegates attended the three day session earlier this month.

They also reported that the delegates gave particular emphasis on stronger bargaining and marketing power, a call for more state support for the operation of local public schools, a relief on tax burdens through a state income tax, a voluntary farm program and the selling of wheat to Russia providing the U. S. receives cash in return.

County Farm Bureau president Loring Leist announced that the following people will be committee chairman for 1964: policy development, Lewis Hay; growth, John Stevenson; council, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Richards; finance, Lewis Hay; building, Harold Schein; legislative, Hal Richard; and insurance, John Stevenson.

Ed Johnson explained a new electronic record keeping service known as Buckeye Farm Records that is now being offered to farmers in several counties throughout Ohio.

The Board requested that this service be introduced in Pickaway County as soon as possible. Buckeye Farm Records is an affiliate of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The business session was adjourned with a reading of the goals of the organization for 1964. Refreshments were enjoyed by all present.

Agency Shop Ban Ruled To Be Legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today state courts may enforce state bans on agency shop labor contracts.

Justice Douglas delivered the 8-0 decision.

Justice Goldberg, former secretary of labor, took no part.

Workers under agency shop contracts do not have to become union members but must pay the equivalent of dues and fees which members pay.

Douglas said that, in the case ruled on today, the Florida Supreme Court had held that a negotiated union - security agreement violated the right to work provision of the Florida Constitution, and that state courts have jurisdiction to provide a remedy.

"We agree with that view," said Douglas.

The Supreme Court on June 3, 1963, ruled that agency shop contracts are permissible under federal law, but said they may be prohibited by state law. The same day the high tribunal upheld the Florida Supreme Court in its findings that the agency shop violates the state's right-to-work law.

Left unanswered then was the question whether enforcement of state bars against agency shops is up to the states or the National Labor Relations Board. The high court called for new arguments on that issue and they were heard on Oct. 16-17.

presents the $50,000 Enrico Fermi award to controversial nuclear physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Oppenheimer directed the Los Alamos Laboratory where the atom bomb was developed during World War II. In 1954, he was declared a security risk by the Atomic Energy Commission. The commission did not question his loyalty, but by a 4-1 vote barred him from further access to atom secrets.

Last April, the White House announced that in recognition of his contribution toward developing the bomb, the AEC had selected him to receive the Fermi Award, one of science's most coveted honors.

Johnson, his wife and two daughters attended services Sunday at St. Mark's Episcopal Church. Then the Johnson family drove to Arlington National Cemetery where the President placed a bouquet of red roses on the grave of his assassinated predecessor, John F. Kennedy.

The visits of Erhard, Segni and Douglas-Horne are in line with Johnson's vow to carry out Kennedy's objective of strengthening ties within the Atlantic Alliance.

Erhard will confer with Johnson Dec. 27-28 at the Johnson ranch near Johnson City, Tex. Segni will pay a state visit to Washington Jan. 14-15, and Douglas - Home will come to Washington for talks with Johnson Feb. 12-13.

President Charles de Gaulle of France also is expected to visit the United States next year, but no date has been set. The slowness in fixing a date apparently reflects the deep differences with France on Western policy.

Meanwhile, the FBI is looking over a Soviet consular file on Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of Kennedy. Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin voluntarily turned over the file to Secretary of State Dean Rusk Saturday.

Oswald, who was slain two days after the assassination of the President, lived in Russia for nearly three years.

Johnson has named a top-level panel headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren to investigate Kennedy's slaying. There is no word yet on when the group will meet.

ARF!

Understand women? Well . . . not completely. They're too beautifully complex for that (bow WOW!). But this is for sure: You can't sell 'em a car they don't want (it's got to be right—like the Polara 500, below). You can't sell 'em a car they do want (it's got to be their decision). And you can't get cute with prices! You know, with all this understanding, wouldn't you guess we'd be selling cars like hot cakes? We are. And we're going for more. With the kind of deals and back-up service everybody understands. See the Dodge Boys!

ABOUT THE POLARA 500: GRR! ABOUT THE DEAL: PURR.
